Picket line closes Pet Milk plant at Arlington Heights

Union refuses to refer matter to War Labor board

Action of four employees of the Pet Milk Co., Arlington Heights, in designating a Chicago milk drivers union as their bargaining agent threatens to close the Arlington plant of that company.

The union has made efforts for some time to secure a contract with the company. At the first election, a tie resulted. On the union's plea a second election was called and won by them.

At present the drivers of the wholesale milk trucks receive approximately $280 a month. They are asking a contract which would boost their salaries to $300 or $310 a month. These salaries would be based on the payment to them of the approximately same commission per quart that is paid to the house-to-house delivery men.

"Such salaries," stated the management of the company, Wednesday, "would be all out of proportion to salaries received by wholesale truckdrivers throughout the country."

The Pet Milk Co. is a national organization and Arlington business interests fear that unless the union drops its demands for such high salaries, the company would close their Arlington plant, which to them is only a drop in the bucket as compared to their national milk business. The local plant is the only fluid milk outlet that the company maintains in the Chicago area.

Milk for the Arlington plant comes by truck from North Prairie, Wis. Wednesday morning the trucks were stopped by the picket line and returned their milk to the Wisconsin plant where it was disposed of through other channels.

Three Arlington milk depots handle Pet milk. They had a small supply on hand, but unless the picket line is withdrawn the retail stores will be unable to secure their usual supply.

It is reported that other dairy companies in this area which dispose of their milk through retail stores will soon face similar difficulties.

It is admitted that the real purpose behind the union efforts is to shut down the retail milk stores and force the public to have their milk delivered to them by the "milk man". The additional costs that would result by the payment of retail commissions to the whole-sale milk drivers would naturally raise the cost of store milk.

The Pet Milk company established its Arlington depot in 1936 and during the past eight years has built up a large business in whole-sale fluid milk and ice cream mix. The picket line would not allow a number of customers to pick up their supply that was in the refrigeration rooms of the plant.

A few of the local truck drivers voted against the union and remained loyal to the company. Five of the older drivers are in the armed services, receiving $50 a month from Uncle Sam. The drivers who voted for the union contracts are men who have started working for the company since Pearl Harbor.

There has been no disturbance at the plant and the police have not been asked to interfere. There is a local ordinance passed January, 1940, which prohibits the picketing of any local business firm by persons who are not employees and who have no personal dispute with the owner.

Representatives of a number of local civic organizations and business men have called the Pet Milk officials assuring the company of their willingness to do anything possible that will help solve the situation.

'Cards' and donkeys give the public many laughs

Last Thursday evening one of the largest Arlington crowds in years saw Donkey baseball at its best and laughed, cheered and had a good summer evening's entertainment.

The Cards and their opponents (boys from Palatine and the Walther league) played the game as though their lives depended on it and with the feeling that they could throw any donkey that came their way. The expression "that's a horse on me" took a new turn when "Chuck" Page carried a donkey around the bases on his back for the first run of the game. Other funny incidents too numerous to mention were continuous throughout the game. The result was a good evening's fun, put on by a group of boys who gave a lot on energy and got some bruises in return. No one cared what the final score was because it did not make any difference.

The Cards and their sponsors wish to thank the people of the community for the support which was given them last Thursday.

Plan antique and hobby show in September

Arlington Heights is to have an antique and hobby show here in September which will be sponsored by the Woman's Society of the Methodist church.

The show will be held for three days, starting on September 20 and continuing through the 22nd.

Antique dealers are now being contacted, and the committee is deep in plans for the affair.

The project is large enough, that it will require the use of two churches, and the St. John's church will also be used for many of the exhibits.

Beside the antique dealer's show, where people may browse and also purchase, there will be a hobby show and exhibit, where personal hobby and collections will be displayed.

There will also be a quilt exhibit, of old and new quilts, a boy and girl scout exhibit, hunting and fishing exhibits, and many others.

A historical exhibit is being arranged by Mrs. B. T. Best, which will include many interesting articles and much data of the early days of Arlington Heights.

There will be table setting exhibits and arrangements of old and new china, and displays of all sorts.

Luncheon and supper will be served each day of the show, which will be open to the general public at a cost of 35c for all exhibits at both churches.

The general public is cordially invited to enter hobbies, table settings, or other exhibits in the show. Arrangements are now being made to safeguard all exhibits with insurance and constant protection.

A list of committee chairmen to contact for show entries is as follows:

Quilt exhibit, Mrs. Ira Parker, tel. 751.

Historical exhibit, Mrs. B. T. Best, tel. 172.

Hobbies, Mrs. Don Stockdale, tel. 177-R.

Table arrangements, Mrs. Wm. Brown, tel. 376-W.

Antique dealers, Mrs. R. E. Atkinson, tel. 567.

Mrs. Marvin Prellburg is general chairman of the affair.

Further details on exhibits and show information will appear from time to time in this paper. Save the dates of Sept. 20-21-22 for this affair.

Daughter and grandchild drown in Wisconsin lake

Mary Jane Tompkins, 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tompkins (nee Sarah Rennack) and her four-year-old niece, Wanda Poole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Poole, Milwaukee, were drowned on a lake at Sturgeon Bay, July 18. The older girl holds a life savers' badge and it is presumed she was trying to save the life of her niece who had fallen in the water.

The storm wind evidently moved the boat out of reach. Mary Jane, on a vacation with her family, took Wanda for a boat ride Tuesday morning, July 18. When they did not return for dinner the family became alarmed and searched for them finding the empty boat on the opposite side of the lake. A party of natives found the dog, that had been with the girls, digging a hole a short distance from shore. Realizing they must be in the water, the coast guards searched all night but did not find the body of Mary Jane until the afternoon of the 19th. Three airplanes were flying overhead trying to locate the girls, when the reflection of one plane hit the water so the body of the oldest girl was seen, with both arms still held up as though trying to save her niece. Wanda's body was found the following afternoon of the 20th.

The funeral was held in Chicago, Monday, July 24th.

Mrs. Tompkins, mother of Mary Jane, is a sister of Walter and Herman Rennack of Palatine.

The other officers to be installed are John Randag, first vice president; Otto Wulbecker, second vice president; Henry Miller, third vice president; Walter Kroeber, fourth vice president; Warren Kohler, secretary; Clifford Crane, treasurer; William Franke, trail twister; and William Lathen, lion tamer. Two directors elected for the coming year are Oral Cline and Marvin Prellburg.

Start rebuilding Douglas office this week

Rebuilding of the fire-swept Administration building of the Douglas Chicago plant group at Mannheim and Higgins roads is scheduled to get underway this week, it was announced on Monday by John C. Buckwalter, plant manager. Contracts for the project were awarded last Saturday to Skidmore, Owings & Merrill, Chicago architects and engineers.

As revealed by Buckwalter, the new structure will be of permanent type construction, fireproof throughout. Specifications call for the use of brick, concrete, and steel, whereas the former building was entirely frame.

In size, the new building will be identical to the old structure, approximately 100 feet wide and 600 feet long. It will occupy the site of the former structure.

Tentative plans call for completion of the building not later than October 1. It will be erected in sections, with each section being taken over for occupancy just as soon as it is finished.

Despite the fire, which completely destroyed the old Administration building, production of C-54's, the nation's largest cargo airplane now in full production, is moving along at an unimpeded clip at the Chicago plant, according to Mr. Buckwalter. Because duplicate records were available at the company's plant in Santa Monica, he anticipates no serious production delays.

Without exception, Buckwalter announced, every department in the plant has operated continuously without interruption since the fire. Quarters for a majority of the Administration building employees were established in the three newly-finished cafeteria buildings. Other Ad building workers were assigned locations in the Assembly and Personnel buildings.

To make the regular payroll on schedule, nearly 50 Chicago plant employees were sent by airplane to the company's plant at Oklahoma City. Time records were among the few rescued from the blaze. As the payrolls were completed, they were flown back to Chicago. The same procedure is being followed this week.

Welfare Assn. offers special entertainment

The Northwest Branch of the Child Welfare Association are sponsoring an acrobatic performance in the interest of keeping fit at the Lutheran School Hall on Friday evening, August 4, at 8:00 o'clock.

In addition to other entertainment Mr. and Mrs. Brooks from Decatur, Ill., will perform acrobatic stunts on the trapeze and also feats of strength and endurance. While Mr. Brooks performs he displays his well developed muscles and the name and use of each. He points out the necessity of proper diet and regular hours in order to have muscles of great strength. Exercise is an essential prerequisite of a healthy mind and body. Diet is no less important for the assurance of stamina and well being. His demonstrative lecture is very interesting and educational.

Tickets are 40c. Cake and coffee will be served in the dining room.

Wheeling Days net large sum

With the accounting still incomplete the 17th annual Wheeling Day celebration promises to be a financial success. Indications were good that the proceeds would exceed all former years until the storm came on Sunday evening when about half the crowd was rained out. In spite of wet grounds all games and rides opened again after the storm.

The finale came with the raffle of the grand prizes all of which left the village as follows:

Deep Freeze—Wm. Sebastian, Park Ridge.

Console Radio—R. Hursen, Morton Grove.

Gas Range—Lucille Eschette, Chicago.

Floor Lamp—Fred Langhorst, Palatine.

$50.00 Bond—E. A. Menke, Highland Park.

$25.00 Bond—J. H. Christenson, Northfield.

$25.00 Bond—Lois Solberg, Deerfield.

Palatine boy lost over Germany

Julius Garlich, Quentin Road, Palatine, received word from the government Friday that his stepson, Philip Jones, a bombardier, was lost over Germany July 7.

Sgt. Jones entered the service January 23, 1943, going from Camp Grant to Keesler Field to Buckley Field, Colorado, thence to Loury Field. He graduated from the army air forces armament school at Loury Field, Colorado, May, 1943.

Sgt. Jones has taken part in such celebrated aerial attacks as those on Berlin, Brunswick and Gutersloh. He was presented an army medal June 30, 1944, by Col. Gibson for exceptionally meritorious achievement in bomber combat missions over occupied Europe.

Cards lose to Libertyville five to one

Last Sunday the Arlington "Cards" were defeated by the Libertyville, Jr., American Legion team, 5 to 1.

The Arlington team was a victim of their own base running in this game plus the fact that they insisted upon erring to giving away runs to their opponents. In the fourth inning the Cards made three hits coupled with a walk and the net in runs was absolute zero. Perhaps the less said about this game the better it will be.

The same teams will meet again at Libertyville at 3:00 Sunday afternoon.

Baseball School

Thursday, July 27, 6:30 P. M. Baseball school continues this week as usual.

The fact that Arlington Heights is a good baseball town is well demonstrated in youth of the community which attends the baseball school. These boys are using the Recreation park diamond four nights a week showing that they want to play and that they do it well.

This summer activity has been carried on by the athletic committee of the Dad's club with assistance from players on the Red Wing team and former Chicago land players. Dads and men of the community who are interested in helping with this activity please call Charles Page, 1545.

Send 100,000 smokes to boys in the service

Arlington Heights has sent 100,000 cigarettes to the boys in service, it was revealed this week by local American Legion officials.

Merle Guild post has supervised the collection of funds for this purpose.

The milk bottles scattered in local stores invite contributions, stating that 5 cents provides a pack of cigarettes for some man in service. The smokes are sent in cartons, with a return card enclosed in each carton.

Now on exhibit at Mort Green's ice cream parlor in Arlington Heights are 100 of these cards sent by the boys receiving the cigarettes. They all attest to the popularity of the "smokes for yanks" campaign.

Fish stories are never too young or too old

Ed Hrdlicka and Al Wilson can usually be relied on to tell a straight story—even if it is about the number of fish they caught on their last expedition.

The story being circulated about town is that Ed and Al hauled in a record total of 57 black bass, the species that every sportsman likes to brag about, in their latest fishing adventure.

Their private rendezvous is at Horseshoe Lake in Wisconsin where Mr. Wilson owns an extensive tract footed along the lake said to be ideal for fishing and holiday outings. Mr. Hrdlicka spent two weeks at the lucky horseshoe returning home a little over a week ago.

Mort Greene is talking about a trip to Cy Young's place in the wilds of Canada where he will place Hrdlicka and Wilson in the piker class.

FUNERAL SATURDAY

Mrs. Fred Bjurstrom, 19 West Campbell street, wife of the janitor of the Krause apartments, died Wednesday noon. Funeral Saturday, July 29, at Karstens Funeral Home at 2 o'clock.

Arlington firemen to celebrate their 50th anniversary

Arlington Heights firemen are making extensive plans for the observance of their 50th anniversary next October. The department has only had three chiefs. The first was George Peter, the second Geo. K. Volz and the third, Richard Jahn, the present chief.

Clark upholds assessments in Prospect Hts.

John S. Clark, Cook County Assessor, issued a reply this week to a news story that appeared in the June 16th issue of the Herald, regarding the assessed values that had been placed on lots in Prospect Heights by Mr. Clark's office.

"In our issue of Friday, June 16, you criticized this office concerning so-called inequities existing in Prospect Heights, which is a part of Wheeling Township.

"For your information, there is attached hereto copy of letter dated July 19, from Mr. Richard M. Sullivan, Supervisory Country Town Land Appraiser, which confirms in detail the subject of assessment in this particular district known as Prospect Heights.

"It is obvious Mr. Sullivan's report answers your editorial criticism and certainly substantiates the values placed upon the property in this community."

The report of Mr. Sullivan reads as follows:

"In reference to the attached newspaper article, wish to state that the original division from farm land to sub-divided lots, took place in 1937 with additions in 1938, 1939 and 1940. This property is located north of McDonald Road, east and west of Elmhurst Road.

"There are 312 homes sold at a cost of $5,000 to $6,500. The stores are located in the community center, 13 in all, and were built at a cost of $43,000. They rent for from $60 to $75 per month. All are one story with the exception of the store on the N. E. corner, which is a two story having two offices on the second floor, and a $35.00 per month each.

"Across from this store is a gas station and garage, one story brick, located at the N. W. corner of McDonald Road and Elmhurst Road. The cheapest lot was sold for $500 and the most expensive for $900. The average for the lots would be about $700, with minimum restrictions of each lot having 20,000 square feet or slightly less than one half acre. 100 feet is the minimum frontage per lot. There are filled in macadam roads, with the exception of Elmhurst Road, which is a concrete highway. There are no curbs or sidewalks. The buildings that were sold for between $5,000 and $6,500 included streets, sewer and water septic system, which cost about $600 per lot.

"They have a United Bus line service in the morning and evening, which is about two miles from the railroad station.

"There are 9 buildings, one gas station and garage on the west side of Elmhurst Road to Olive Avenue, and 13 stores and 3 residences on the east side. In this community, about 75 % of the residences are one story, 12 1/2 % are 1 1/2 story, and 12 1/2 % are two story. About 95 % of these buildings are brick and 5 % frame.

"As to the Assessor's 1944 pricing, we have $50 on the N. E. corner of Elmhurst Road and McDonald Road, and from $25 to $15 on the inside holdings, with a $5 per front foot on the residential property, making a full value of about $608 for 1/2 acre lots with 100 foot frontage. Other authorities show $100 on the northeast and west corners of Elmhurst Road and McDonald Road and from $10 to $60 on the inside holdings with $6, $7 and $8 on all residential property.

"Prior to the 1943 quadrennial, this property was priced on an acreage basis. Our attention was called by other subdividers of comparable property in the community, and we were compelled to price on a front foot basis as the legal description describes these as lots.

"Our values are fair and are in uniformity and correlation with adjacent property and can be substantiated."

St. John church to be closed for vacation

The minister will attend during his first week of absence from the church the Pastor's Institute sponsored by the University of Chicago. Mrs. Kamphenkel will spend a few days in Monee, Illinois, with her parents.

During the second week the Kamphenkels plan to be guests of Mrs. Elizabeth Schrader at her cabin near Fox River Grove.

Recreation head resigns; program will be continued

Park Board seeks swim instructor

It is no secret that the recreation program in Arlington Heights, of which so much was expected, has not been clicking. A meeting of the park board was held Friday evening when it was expected that the difficulties would be ironed out.

The net result of the meeting was the acceptance of the resignation of the recreation director, Mr. Seidler.

Wade Parmelee will carry on that part of the recreation program that has been in progress. Swimming lessons will be started if the board is able to secure an instructor.

The present status of the entire program is outlined in the following statement by the park board:

"On Monday the Park Board announced the resignation of Armand Seidler as a Park employee.

"Seidler had been employed the early part of April to manage and conduct a Recreational Program, supervise free swimming lessons and instruct the swimming pool guards. The program was to have commenced June 19th and terminated August 31st. Certain phases of the agreement were performed as follows:

"The recreation program to date had consisted of story telling by Mrs. Daniels two mornings a week, girls recreational program in charge of Mrs. Ann Morrissey three mornings a week and a boys recreational program conducted by Mr. Seidler three mornings each week. In spite of many youngsters being employed at all sorts of jobs, all of the morning programs were well attended and the Board is well satisfied with the results obtained.

"Wade Parmelee of Mount Prospect, who is a regular guard at the swimming pool, has taken over Mr. Seidler's morning programs. They will continue without interruption as will all other morning programs. A wide variety of fun, games, handicraft and recreational work is worked into the programs. All youngsters who have not attended or who have been registered and have neglected to come out are urged to get on the band wagon and have some real fun.

"The Board is making all sorts of inquiries to obtain some competent individual to supervise a free swimming program for boys and girls at least four afternoons a week. Although the season is rapidly drawing to a close they still hope to be able to conduct classes in both beginners and advanced groups. The Board would be most interested in interviewing any experienced individual or learning of such a person.

Swimming

"The pool has been kept in most excellent condition all summer under Superintendent Herb Mueller's care. The water is being filtered twenty-four hours a day, bromine in ample quantities added each day. The pool floor is vacuumed and brushed regularly and constant precautions taken to control and prevent the development of algae. Attendance in the pool has been reasonably good, averaging 550 swimmers a day.

"The pool is cooperating with the American Red Cross, who will conduct an American Red Cross First Aid Water Safety and Accident Prevention Service course. This class will be open to boys and girls 11 years and older. The course consists chiefly of the different methods used in rescue work and will prove very helpful and instructive to our youngsters.

"Miss Morene Jorgensen, the American Red Cross representative will personally conduct the class.

"Classes will start at 9:00 a. m. on Thursday, August 3, and will continue each Thursday thereafter until August 31. Fifteen hours of instruction is necessary to complete the course, and it will be necessary to attend each week to complete the instruction as there cannot be any make-up periods. All those wanting to enter this class must register, and can do so at the field house."

Purchase $8,000 war bonds

Individual war bond purchases last week total $8,000, bringing the total to $153,000. The grand total for Arlington Heights is $374,000. Chairman Franzen received a telegram Tuesday urging more effort as the individual quota for Cook County will be missed by thirty million dollars.

Former Palatine bank cashier dies suddenly

Fred A. Schering, 63, who was cashier of the Palatine State Bank prior to the bank moratorium in 1933, suffered a heart attack on a Chicago street Saturday, July 15. He was employed by the Federal Reserve Bank, which directed that he be taken to the Lutheran Deaconess hospital, where every effort was made to save his life, including the administration of blood transfusions. He died Saturday, July 22. The funeral was held at the Karstens chapel, Arlington Heights, Tuesday afternoon with interment in the family lot in Palatine.

Mr. Schering spent the greater part of his life in Palatine. After completing elementary school, he started to work in Chicago, attended a night school, and in the employ of the Northern Trust Co., rose to a responsible position which he left to become cashier of the Palatine State Bank, which was among the hundreds of banking institutions that did not reopen its doors following the bank moratorium.

As a bank officer he felt keenly the enforced liquidation of the bank and his friends feel that the undermining of his health can be traced to the depression years. As a young man and a bank officer he had an enviable reputation.

To be nearer his work he left Palatine several years ago and made his home in Chicago.

Doctors detect cause of defects
by C. W. LUSSMAN
It frequently happens that some minor defect when diagnosed in time by a physician is quickly corrected.
Allowed to develop, the same defect, described too often by those affected as "nothing much" becomes a major illness, with a subsequent long and tedious period of confinement.
And whereas one visit to a doctor might have sufficed, neglect makes many visits of the doctor a necessity.

Bombing trainer exhibit opens on Friday in city

Chicago will have scored another "first" when a bombing trainer goes on display at the Museum of Science and Industry, on Friday, July 28. This is the initial showing for the public, in a realistic background, of an operational flight over enemy territory.

Obtained through the courtesy of the Royal Canadian Air force, the trainer will be staffed by Royal Air force officers, all of whom have participated in many bombing missions over Germany, and one of whom is now enroute from England. Visitors will be taken through each of the steps of a genuine raid, beginning with a "briefing" to acquaint them with the mission on which they are going over Germany. From the briefing room, spectators will enter the observation pit, at one side of which is the glass-encased cockpit of a R. C. A. F. bomber. A large aerial photograph of the German territory to be bombed will be projected on the floor of the pit, so that the observers seem to fly over the land below as the bomber proceeds on its mission. Sound effects and a speaker system permit listening in on the pilot and his crew, and their conversation with each other as the aircraft approaches its target. Electrical mechanisms simulate the enemy's anti-aircraft fire and actual bomb bursts as the bombs are dropped and the ship is turned on its course homeward.

The exhibit will be open every day in the week except Mondays. One hundred can be accommodated at each demonstration. In the afternoon, except Sundays, engagements may be made for organized groups who wish to visit the museum. The museum is open daily, free, at 9:30 a. m., closes weekdays at 5:30 p. m., and on Sundays and holidays at 7 p. m.

Must be careful in canning vegetables

There may be several ways to can non-acid vegetables, but only one safe way . . . by processing in a pressure canner.

Non-acid vegetables require high temperature (240° F.) to sterilize them completely, to make them safe for keeping and safe for eating. These high temperatures can be produced only in a pressure cooker or canner.

Vegetables should be in prime condition and not over a day old when canned. If they come from your own garden, with only a few hours elapsed between picking and canning, so much the better.

Canning Green Beans
Two changes in the preparation of beans for canning have been recommended by authorities this year. One is to wash the beans quickly in warm water. The other is to discard the liquid in which the beans are preheated or blanched before packing them in the jars. Fresh boiling water is used in the jars instead of the blanching water.

Wash beans thoroughly in cold water, then wash thoroughly in warm water. Drain thoroughly and remove the stem and blossom ends. Cut the beans into pieces or leave whole, as you like. Cover with boiling water, bring again to a boil, and cook for five minutes. Drain and pack the hot beans into hot, clean jars. Add one-half teaspoon of salt to each pint and cover with boiling water, leaving one-half inch head space. Work out air bubbles by pushing a knife blade down the sides of the jar. Wipe jar rim clean.

Adjust the lids of the jars according to the directions given by the manufacturer. Process in a pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure for 30 minutes. Then remove the jars from the canner and complete the seal, if necessary. Quart jars of beans are seasoned with one teaspoon of salt and processed at 10 pounds pressure for 40 minutes.

Other non-acid vegetables which must be processed in a pressure canner are asparagus, beets, carrots, corn, greens, peas, pumpkin, squash, and sweet potatoes. Processing time is given in the government bulletin, "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables." Write to the Chicago Nutrition Committee, 209 W. Jackson Blvd., Room 600, Chicago 6, for a copy of this leaflet.

KID SALVAGE

Get your tickets now for Mt. Prospect firemen's dance

Tickets are now on sale for the eighth annual carnival and picnic of the Mount Prospect village and rural fire departments to be held Saturday, July 19 at Ehrhart's Grove, Park Ridge.

Music will be furnished by Wally Hahnfeld's orchestra and there will be both modern and square dancing. Dance tickets, which cost only 60 cents including tax, will enable the holder to participate in $25 in cash prizes.

Because of the pressure of farm work, many of the rural fire members were unable to be present at the joint meeting when plans were made for the carnival. However, the event is being conducted on the same basis as in former years with each department sharing equally in the proceeds. Attractive posters are up and tickets are being distributed among all members who will get them in the hands of their neighbors.

These fire fighting units are not supported by tax levies or assessments of any kind but are maintained entirely from proceeds raised from public functions. For this reason, it is believed that the public, particularly those families in the area protected by the Mount Prospect village and rural fire departments, will be eager to help make the eighth annual carnival and dance a success.

Farm labor

USDA says—in all states, farmers who need lumber for essential maintenance and repairs on farms may get preference ratings AA-2 or AA-3, as high as those assigned to any other civilian use. . . . Civilian butter supplies for the last half of this year will be shorter than for the first half, inasmuch as production during the next six months is expected to be lower than during the corresponding months last year and purchases for the armed forces are behind schedule.

O.P.A. says—because of sheepherders living for long periods in isolated areas eat large quantities of cereal foods and need more sugar than regular rations provide, they may get supplemental rations of one and one-half pounds a month. . . . Sales of major canned fruits and vegetables by home packers whose output in any calendar year does not exceed a specified amount—500 to 1,500 quarts—are exempt from price control.

Mine tank

The British "Flail Tanks" used to clear minefields, have proved highly successful, the British information service reports. The tanks are constructed with a steel cylinder fitted across the front to which are attached a number of lengths of chain several feet long. As the tank moves forward, the cylinder revolves rapidly and the chains are whirled round lashing the ground in front of the tank and exploding any mines buried in its path—even mines buried three deep. The types produced thus far in Britain are the Scorpion, the Baron, the Marquis and the latest model, the Crab.

Super-alloy

Japs who have felt the sting of the 20th Air force's B-29 superfortress, which uses huge quantities of 24S-RT, an aluminum alloy as strong as structural steel, will be unhappy to know that an even stronger alloy is now being used by at least eight U. S. manufacturers in the construction of experimental planes. The new alloy, known as 75-S is the result of 18 years of research in the laboratories of Aluminum Company of America, which announces that the alloy is now in quantity production in the company's mills. Dr. Francis C. Frary, director of research, reveals that 75-S has a compressive yield strength of 67,000 pounds to the square inch, twice that of ordinary structural steel. Its tensile strength is about 88,000 pounds to the square inch. Approximately 90 per cent aluminum, with magnesium and iron as the chief alloying ingredients, 75-S is intended primarily for use in long-range bombers and fighters. Tojo, look out below!

Rats

Sears Roebuck still sends out wallpaper catalogues, but they want them back to save paper. For that reason a postage-free return envelope goes out with each catalogue. . . . Five ferrets are used by a large industrial plant in Cleveland to catch rats. As a team they average about 2,600 rats a year.

Cheap dollars

Things to Come—New fabrics for post-war use woven from fibres of the ramie, pineapple and milkweed, and blended with the hair of the rabbit, muskrat, sheep, dog and camel. . . . Block-out ink for obliterating old markings on paper shipping cartons, wooden boxes and crates so that the containers can be restenciled and used again. . . . Cheaper dollar bills, but not because of inflation. To save on paper, the treasury department is printing experimentally dollar bills on a lighter grade of stock and stamping them with a big red S. This is to distinguish them from bills printed on customary paper which will be stamped with a red R.

More civilian work clothing for men and boys is indicated by a war production board order requiring manufacturers of work clothing to produce during each quarter beginning July 1 at least 90 per cent of the number of garments manufactured during the third quarter of 1942. Items to be produced are bib overalls, dungarees, work shirts, one-piece work suits, pants, overall jackets and blanket-lined coats. In line with recent national legislation, manufacturers prices for the basic construction of denim (used widely in manufacture of overalls) have been raised one cent a yard, the office of price administration announced.

SALMON RICE PLATTER
3 1-lb. salmon steaks (1 1/2" thick) 1 cup milk
5 1/2 cups hot cooked white rice 1 egg, beaten
(about 1 1/2 cups uncooked) 1/2 cup mayonnaise
6 tbsps. butter or margarine 1 to 1 1/2 tbsps. lemon juice
1 1/2 tbsps. flour 1/4 cup minced parsley or fresh herbs
1/2 tsp. salt Watercress
Speck pepper

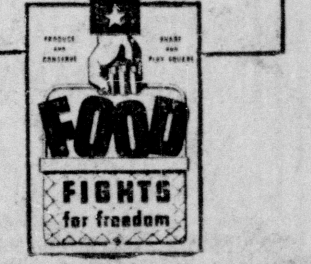

If necessary, scale the steaks. Remove any small bones in the tapering ends of each steak; then skewer these ends into place with metal skewers or toothpicks. Arrange the steaks toward the front of an oven-glass platter (a baking pan may be used). Brush top surface with salad oil; then bake in moderate oven of 350° F. for 20 min., or until the fish close to the center bone flakes easily, but is still moist. Brush with salad oil once or twice during baking. Meanwhile, cook the rice.

ALSO PREPARE THE FOLLOWING SAUCE:
Melt 2 tbsps. butter or margarine in a saucepan; stir in flour, salt, and pepper, then the milk. Cook, while stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Remove from heat; pour slowly over beaten egg, while stirring constantly. Return to low heat for 2 min., while stirring. Stir in mayonnaise and lemon juice, and serve at once. When fish is done, remove; arrange the hot rice, to which 1/4 c. butter and the parsley have been added, around back of steaks, with watercress garnish in front. Pour sauce over top of steaks. Serves 4 to 6.

Walther League service paper honored twice

"Buddies," servicemen's paper edited by the Walther League of St. Peter's church, Arlington Heights, was rated twice at the 52nd International Lutheran Walther League convention held in St. Louis last week. In the Talent Quest it was rated Excellent as was reported in a telegram received last Thursday from the editor, Arlene Nagel. This rating was the highest given to any paper; the only reason it was not superior was the fact that it is sponsored by the St. Peter congregation and not by the local League.

All other points of rating: News Value, development of stories, proper balance, make-up and typography, copyediting and proofreading, headlines were all judged Superior—League interest, Excellent.

After the telegram had been sent the announcement was made that Arlington Heights, Illinois, was rated Superior in the Wartime Service program of the International Walther League with headquarters at 875 Dearborn Street, Chicago. Buddies was the only paper to receive this rating from several hundred sent to the headquarters each month.

The convention itself attracted a total of 1,052 persons, representing 854 societies and 37 districts, two from Canada. The programs and sessions were streamlined in accordance with war time restrictions to cover all the problems and questions which these young persons face. The most important resolution to affect the greatest number is to carry on the Wartime Service in cooperation with the Synod's Army and Navy Commission to serve the chaplains and fighting personnel.

Green beans aid canning program

Home canning of green beans while supplies are abundant was urged today by an official of one of the nation's largest buyers of produce.

"Plentiful supplies of this favorite vegetable are ample for year around use if the surplus is canned by the housewives of the nation," R. F. Gamble, A & P Food store sales manager for this district, said today.

Patriotism can be displayed in canning food at home as well as on the actual battlefield by helping to preserve food supplies, Mr. Gamble pointed out. Free leaflets on food canning are being distributed in A & P stores. Approximately 30 pounds of green beans will yield 20 quarts when canned.

The Wm. Huntley family have moved from 203 N. Haddon avenue to Bogota, New Jersey.

Word to civilians in enemy lands sent by Red Cross

More than 2,000 messages per work day between residents in enemy or enemy-occupied countries were handled last year by the Red Cross Home Service inquiry unit. During the first three months of this year 157,607 messages were exchanged through the Red Cross.

This message service and a similar service maintained by the Vatican and the Roman Catholic church are the only recognized legal means of communicating with civilians in enemy-held territory. Red Cross messages originating in this country are made out on forms available at all Red Cross chapters. They are limited to 25 words and may not mention politics, the war, business or financial matters. All messages go to Red Cross National Headquarters, Washington, D. C., and are cleared through the office of censorship. They are then sent to the International Red Cross committee in Geneva, Switzerland, where they are again censored. The International Red Cross committee then forwards the messages to the Red Cross societies of the countries of destination for delivery.

The average time required to get an answer to a message to Europe is nine months. Delivery is often delayed because of deportation, shifting population, and other upheavals resulting from war, but every possible effort is made to get the message through. As already stated, this service is available through all Red Cross chapters and has been used by many persons in rural areas of the United States who have relatives in the old country.

Mr. and Mrs. Nels Olson are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Claborn, in Bristol, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Utterback, Mary Jane and Bill spent last week visiting relatives in Sigourney, Ohio.

Catherine Hughes is spending a week's vacation at the home of her parents in Petersburg, Ill.

Sgt. Fred Bloese guest at party

A huge party was given in honor of Sgt. Fred W. Bloese, formerly of Arlington Heights, at the home of his sister, Mrs. Clarence Seegers, at Marengo, Ill., on Saturday night, July 15. Sgt. Bloese returned to the United States the latter part of June and is now in limited service due to an injury received to his left hand in Italy.

An enjoyable evening was had by all as they joined in playing bongo, cards and dancing. A delicious lunch was served, after which the guests left wishing a lot of luck.

Among those present were the Gustave Bloese family of Woodstock, the Willard Friberg of Chicago, the Walter Reimers of Elgin, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Buchholz and family of Elgin, Mr. and Mrs. George Buchholz of Roselle, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Vocke of Roselle, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Seegers of Des Plaines, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Pankonin and family of Palatine, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Keim and family and Mr. and Mrs. Deneen of Marengo.

Sgt. Bloese had an unusual homecoming as home to him meant a new neighborhood. Since leaving the country his folks moved from Arlington Heights to Woodstock, his sister, Mrs. Seegers from Medinah to Marengo; his sister, Mrs. Friberg, from Arlington Heights to Edison Park; his sister, Mrs. Reimer, from Crystal Lake to Elgin. He also just missed seeing his brother, "Goody" who was home the first part of June and has now left for the South Pacific according to reports.

The entire family gathered at the Bloese farm on Sunday to extend farewells and good wishes to Fred, who left on Tuesday for Texas where he will report at Fort Sam Houston.

It happened here

Peggy came in from the garden the other evening with a firefly in the bow of her white hair ribbon, a very effective ornament in the dark room. Whenever we see the firefly patrol with their green lanterns searching the path little boys have made thru the tall weeds of the lot, we fully expect them, some evening, to find small Arthur curled up there "fast-to-sleep." Small Arthur now has a tiny tricycle just large enough for a Disney troll, and who knows what doors open for a very, very small jumper-suited boy whose head scarcely shows above the tall weeds. It is to be hoped that trolls have a goodly supply of blue jumpers for small Arthur has just plumped down, purposely and deliberately, in the large pool on the sidewalk. We do not know who tho't it up, but doubtless one lively cardinal fledgling nudged the other, "Come on, let's take a bath in the white clover." So there they were, the two of them, bathing in the dew-wet clover of the lawn-flip-flap! flash of red-dish tail or wings—dip and flutter and a shower of dew and the whole performance repeated in perfect simulation of using a pool while golden lights and shadows played over the happy tracers. Flower lovers have planted hollyhocks along the cream retaining wall that backs our alley and their gay, old fashioned blossoms are a sight we invite visitors to share.

"Does and Don'ts" For Home Canning Give Housewives Valuable Guidance

INSTEAD of putting a rabbit's foot in your pocket when canning, use your state extension service's canning bulletins, the booklets and instructions that come with your pressure canner and with the jars and closures used. Spoilage may result from unclean equipment, food that isn't fresh, insufficient processing or an imperfect seal.

Dorothy Holladay offers the above and following specific advice in her article in Capper's Farmer, which if followed will produce a home-canned food supply of which a housewife can be proud:

"Do use a pressure cooker for canning all non-acid vegetables, meat, fish and poultry. Use a boiling-water bath for fruits and tomatoes.

"Don't use the open-kettle method for preserving vegetables. There are too many opportunities for bacteria to get into the jar with boiling hot food. Only pickles, relishes, jellies and preserves can be successfully preserved with the open-kettle method.

"Do keep the pressure on the pressure gauge steady. Just before indicated pressure is reached, regulate heat to maintain a constant pressure. Do have the gauge tested for accuracy at your local canning center or through the manufacturer.

"Don't let pressure rise to 15 pounds and then drop to 5. Abrupt changes may drain the liquid from the jars.

"Do process fruits and vegetables as long as directions state. 'Don't underprocess. Even if the product does look nicer for awhile, it is apt to spoil later.

"Do follow directions for sealing each type of lid. They are found on the package or tucked inside. 'Don't leave jars to cool in the water when the processing time is up. This will not give extra protection. It will overcook the fruit and keep it at the right temperature for spoilage.

"Do can food as fresh from the garden as possible. Two hours from garden to jars is a good rule.

"Don't put towels over hot jars. Keep them at lukewarm temperature for several hours encourages spoilage. Don't store in warm kitchen cupboards, especially up near the ceiling. Jellies may thin in this warmth and canned food is more likely to spoil.

"So don't forget. 'Food is too precious these wartime days,' Miss Holladay points out in the Rural Home department of the magazine which is read by 1,250,000 farm families. 'Take advantage of years of research and experimentation [available to you.]'

NO BLANKETS NEEDED!

Just Around the Corner

By Eleanor Milstead

Last week big Ken had his eyes examined. The first half of the following note I scribbled before I remembered, the latter half afterward. When I came upon it today, I was struck with the vagaries of my female mind. Can you imagine a man contriving the following: Dad,

We have gone swimming. Left house at 6:30. If your eyes are dated, and you can't cook yourself an egg you can't read this I guess. But wait, and we will be home and cook it for you.

Elly.

My mother has just sent me a copy of one of my father's favorite poems. She says "the lines were found in the Royal College of Surgeons, London, beside a skeleton, remarkable in symmetry of form. They were subsequently published in the Morning Chronicle, and a vain effort made to ascertain the author, even offering a reward of fifty guineas."

The third stanza our family used to hear almost weekly. I think I nearly always remember dad's "If falsehood's honey it disdained" when my tongue begins to get a bit sharp or I start to say something that can do only harm. Here is the poem:

Behold this ruin! 'Twas a skull
Once ethereal, spirit full.
This narrow cell was life's retreat
This space was thought's mysterious seat.

What beautiful visions filled this spot
With dreams of pleasures long forgot;
Nor hope, nor joy, nor love, nor fear
Have left one trace of record here.

Beneath this moulding canopy
Once shone the bright and busy eyes—
But start not at the dismal void!
If social love that eye employed;
If with no lawless fire it gleamed—
But thro' the dew of kindness beamed—

That eye will be forever bright,
When sun and stars are sunk in night.

Within this hollow cavern hung
The ready, swift and tuneful tongue.
If falsehood's honey it disdained,
And when it could not praise was chained;

If bold in virtue's cause it spoke,
Yet gentle concord never broke—
That silent tongue shall plead for thee,
When time unveils eternity.

Say did these fingers delve the mine
Or with the envied rubies shine?
To hew the rock or wear the gem,
Can little now avail to them

But if the page of truth they sought
Or comfort to the mourner brought—
These hands a richer meed shall claim
Than all who wait on weal or fame.

Avails it whether bare or shod,
These feet the path of duty trod,
If from the bowers of ease they fled
To seek affliction's humble shed.

If grandeur's guilty bribe they spurned,
And home to virtue's cot returned
These feet with angel's wings shall rise,
And tread the palace of the skies."

I seem to be in a quoting mood this morning. Don't you like the virile depth to Carl Sandburg's philosophy in:

A father sees a son nearing manhood.
What shall he tell that son?
"Life is hard, be steel; be a rock."
And this might stand him for the storms

And serve him for humdrum and monotony
And guide him amid sudden betrayals
And tighten him for slack moments.
"Life is a soft loam; be gentle; go easy." And this too might serve him. Brutes have been gentled where lashes failed.

FASHION PREVIEW

The growth of a frail flower in a path up
Has sometimes shattered and split a rock.

A tough will counts. So does desire. So does a rich soft wanting. Without rich wanting nothing arrives.

Tell him too much money has killed men
And left them dead years before burial;

The quest of lucre beyond a few easy needs
Has twisted good enough men
Sometimes into dry thwarted worms.

Tell him time as a stuff can be wasted.
Tell him to be a fool ever so often
And to have no shame over having been a fool

Yet learning something out of every folly
Hoping to repeat none of the cheap follies
Thus arriving at intimate understanding

Of a world numbering many fools.
Tell him to be alone often and get at himself
And above all tell himself no lies about himself

Whatever the white lies and protective fronts
He may use amongst other people
Tell him solitude is creative, if he is strong

And final decisions are made in silent rooms.
Tell him to be different from other people
If it comes natural and easy being different.

Let him have lazy days seeking his deeper motives.
Let him seek deep for where he is a born natural.
Then he may understand Shakespeare

And the Wright brothers, Pasteur, Pavlov,
Michael Faraday and free imaginations
Bringing changes into a world resenting change.

He will be lonely enough
To have time for the work
He knows as his own.

Evelyn Brockmann and Pfc. Kermitt Hinz wed

Evelyn Brockmann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Brockmann, became the bride of Pfc. Kermitt Hinz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hinz, Rand road, Saturday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed at 3:30 o'clock at the Emmanuel Lutheran church, Palatine. Rev. Koester officiated. The bride was given away by her father, Henry Brockmann. She was attired in a white satin and lace dress with a finger tip length veil and carried white roses.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Pearl Brockmann, maid of honor, who wore an aqua dress and carried pink carnations. Mrs. Arnold Brockmann, bridesmaid, wore a pink dress and carried pink carnations.

Pfc. Kermitt was attended by his brother, Embert Hinz, of Cary. The ushers were Arnold Brockmann, cousin of the bride, and Herbert Schroeder.

Mrs. Fred Behrens, soloist, sang "Take Thou My Hand" and "Oh Perfect Love." Mrs. Brockmann, mother of the bride, was attired in an orchid jersey dress and had a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Hinz, the groom's mother, wore a jersey print dress. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a dinner was held at the Brockmann home for the immediate family. Later in the evening a reception was held for one hundred and seventy guests at the William Hinz home on Palatine road. Wally Hahnfeldts orchestra furnished the music.

Mrs. Hinz will remain at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Brockmann. Pfc. Hinz will return to Camp Polk, La.

visits Arlington

Old Folks Home

Members of the Ladies Aid of the Nazareth Lutheran church of Chicago, with their pastor, Rev. H. Kohn, visited the residents of the Lutheran Old Folks home last week. They made a tour of the home acquainting themselves more thoroughly with the different types of work accomplished there. A picnic was held under the beautiful shade trees where they treated the residents to blueberry pie a la mode.

Vegetables
With butter supplies smaller the rest of the year, the wise homemaker is now making jelly and fruit butters to stretch the spreads on toast and sandwiches this winter. The war food administration advises that several fruits now on the market are commonly used for such spreads, including tart apples, apricots, peaches, plums, and various berries. Fruit butter is more economical of sugar than any other spread, and many fruits too small or imperfect in shape for canning make excellent fruit butter.

In most liberal supply this week are cantaloups, watermelons, and peaches. Some of the best quality watermelons and cantaloups are commanding pretty high prices, but most of the stock can be had for fairly moderate cost. Liberal supplies of peaches from the south have resulted in a considerable price decline in recent weeks.
These are three good items for homemakers to feature in menus at this time.

Several vegetables are also excellent for the market basket.
First on the list is head lettuce
... heavy shipments have been coming in from California, and prices are very reasonable. Quite a lot of western green peas are lower in price this week. Carrots and celery are within the reach of most average budgets. Home-grown radishes and onions are economical relish selections, and summer squash can be purchased for a small outlay. With light supplies of tomatoes arriving, prices are again edging higher. Small shipments of new crop sweet potatoes from Louisiana are coming in but are fairly high in price. Dry onions and Irish potatoes will doubtless find a place on most marketing lists, and supplies are adequate.

Ship seeds
More than 18 million pounds of various vegetable seeds have been shipped to 31 countries and territories in all parts of the world during the last 12 months through the war food administration. In addition, commercial exporters delivered seeds to almost every other country not under Axis control.
The products from these seeds are feeding our armed forces, allied forces and civilians.

Super cow
A 15-year-old British cow has produced more than 20,000 gallons of milk, thus establishing a world record for a Shorthorn, the United Kingdom information office reports. Her record milk yield for one year was 2,000 gallons.

Making plans now for War Fund campaign

Clay E. Steele, 411 Elm-street, Park Ridge, Ill., has been named chairman of region 2 of the suburban division of the 1944 community and war fund campaign.
Mr. Steele has been active in civic and church affairs in Park Ridge for many years. He takes on this new and larger civic duty with a broad knowledge of the organization needs involved in a campaign of the scope indicated by his entire region which includes: Glenview, Winnetka, Hubbard Woods, Kenilworth, Wilmette, Glenview, Northfield, Palatine, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Evanston, Niles,
Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Lincoln
Wood, Schiller Park, Norwood Park, Elmwood, Oak Park, and River Forest.

At a meeting of all regional chairmen in the suburban division, Tuesday evening, July 18th, in Chicago, Mr. Steele announced the appointment of district chairmen.

William E. Welling, 2130 Middletown avenue, Northfield, Ill., has been named chairman of district 6, which includes: Glenview, Winnetka, Hubbard Woods, Kenilworth, Wilmette, Glenview, Northbrook,
Northbrook, Glenview Countryside,
Golf and Northfield.

William Busse, Jr., who is the mayor of Mt. Prospect, has been named chairman of district 7, which includes: Palatine, Prospect Heights, Arlington Heights,
Mt. Prospect, Schaumburg, Elk Grove.

The community and war fund of Metropolitan Chicago is building an organization of more than 60-000 volunteer workers in all sections of Cook, Du Page, and Lake counties to raise more than $12-000,000 in 1944 with which to carry on the work of the national war fund agencies and local community chest agencies.

In announcing the appointments,
Mr. Cochran told of the work done during the robot plane attacks on London by British war relief, an important agency of the national war fund, which will receive funds through the efforts of the community and war fund of Metropolitan Chicago.

"Maintaining a 24 hour service, with the drivers sleeping in the cars ready for emergency, American-made and donated ambulances have taken an important part in the D-day invasion and subsequent robot bombing of England," said Mr. Cochran.

"The report of British war relief stated that one of the vehicles conveying a wounded soldier to a hospital was struck by a piece of flying steel from a robot plane which came down almost in the path of the ambulance and burst one of the tires. By making a quick change of wheel, the driver was able to proceed to the hospital with his charge."

"Routine work of the ambulance corps, the report stated, includes blood transfusion service, distribution of penicillin, evacuation of hospitals hit by the indiscriminately aimed robots, and of course, conveying of wounded soldiers to hospitals. The cost of operating this ambulance corps is borne by the funds which we receive from America."

"In addition to the British war relief there are, of course, all the other recognized war relief agencies of the United Nations—Russian, Chinese, Greek, Czechoslovak, Belgian, Norwegian and French;
the U. S. O. and U. S. O. camp shows aboard, war prisoners aid and the United Seamen's service, all of which are supported by the national war fund."

Removes Enamel From Nails
Acetone is the material which you buy to remove enamel from your finger nails. There has been many an accident to a dress, blouse, slip or hose when a drop of finger nail enamel remover has been spilled on an acetate rayon garment.

It takes feed to make milk

Making bricks without straw is considered impossible, yet dairy cows are often expected to make milk without adequate amounts of feed, reports W. B. Nevens, professor of dairy cattle feeding, University of Illinois College of agriculture. July and August are the most difficult months in which to keep up milk yields. Dried-up pastures, hot weather and flies make it impossible to keep cows producing well unless some supplementary feed is given. Some cows, pastures, silage, or hay is needed when other pastures become short and dry. In September green corn makes good feed.
With all these forages, however, grain mixture must also be fed to the better cows in order to keep up good milk yields. If milk production is allowed to drop in midsummer, it is almost certain to result in great loss because it is impossible, through better feeding when cooler weather comes, to restore these milk yields to their former level.

Alfalfa injuries lower feed value

When alfalfa turns yellow in the field because of an attack of leaf-hoppers, leaf spot or other causes, there is considerable decline in protein and mineral content of the hay due to these injuries, according to H. J. Snider, assistant chief in soil experiment fields, University of Illinois College of agriculture.

In 1943 alfalfa which was injured and yellow in appearance was found to contain 103 pounds protein and 19 pounds less mineral in a ton of hay than alfalfa in the same field which was green and uninjured.

Alfalfa which was uninjured and green was found to contain 415 pounds protein and 77 pounds mineral in a ton of hay. Alfalfa which was yellow due to leafhoppers and leaf spot contained only 312 pounds of protein and 58 pounds mineral per ton of hay. This test was made on the University of Illinois Minonk experiment field on August 2, 1943.

Put soft corn in silo . . . Nevens

Soft corn will make good feed and advantage can be taken of the feeding value of the entire crop when it is harvested and preserved as silage, states W. B. Nevens, professor of dairy cattle feeding,
University of Illinois College of agriculture. Some fields of late-planted corn may not mature, and dairy farmers confronted with this problem are likely to find it advantageous to utilize this corn for silage in preference to other fields which can be harvested for grain.
The silo also provides a means for saving drought-stricken, or chinch bug infested corn which will not produce good ears. Such silage has a fair feeding value and will take the place of much high-priced hay. It is necessary that the corn be harvested before it is frozen or before it dries up. Plenty of moisture is essential for good keeping quality in the silo.

Dried-up corn can be salvaged as farm silage

Corn so badly blasted by drought or chinch bugs that it will not produce a grain crop may be salvaged for feed by putting it into the silo says W. B. Nevens, professor of cattle feeding, University of Illinois College of agriculture. Preserved in this way all the forage will be saved for feed, while if permitted to stand in the field or if harvested as fodder, much of its feeding value will be lost. Silage made from corn with few ears is not so high in feeding value as silage containing the usual amount of grain, but three to four tons of it will furnish as many pounds of nutrients as one ton of hay.

The chief precaution to be followed in making silage under these conditions is to make certain that the corn as it goes into the silo has the correct amount of moisture to insure its keeping quality. Seventy to 75 per cent moisture is right. To make a moisture test, remove to a shady place, and chop finely with a corn knife. Take a three-pound sample, weighing carefully to one-tenth pound. Spread in pans and dry overnight in the oven of the kitchen range or until the sample loses no more moisture. If the sample weighs less than one pound when completely dry, the crop is satisfactory for silage, but if the dry weight is more than one pound, water must be added until the corn is well moistened. No other preservative is necessary.

Price ranges and post war prospects

Illinois is not included among the states having a $4.00 peach ceiling. The ceiling in Illinois is $3.60 a bushel or $1.99 a half bushel all season. If the peaches are orchard run—sold loose, or ungraded—the ceiling is 6.7 cents a pound. If the grower sells directly to the ultimate consumer, the ceiling is 33 per cent higher.

For the United States, the hog-corn ratio in June was the same as the long time June average, 10.9. Both the butterfat-feed and milk-feed ratios were substantially above the long-time June average, but the egg-feed ratio was down about 12 per cent. If present trends of livestock feed ratios continue, with milk production especially favored, the bureau of agricultural economics estimates that total milk production for 1944 will be at least as great as, if not greater than, the 118 billion pounds produced in 1943.

There were more goods in cold storage on July 1 than at any other time in our history. All items with the exception of creamery butter were greatly in excess of those of July 1, 1943, and the 1939-43 average.

The bureau of agricultural economics reports that the number of chicks produced by commercial hatcheries during June was the highest since June, 1939. Hatchings of turkeys during the first five months of this year were 26 per cent above the number for the same period last year.

Less food administration has issued an order, which became effective July 17 and which applies to 100 per cent of the turkeys produced and marketed until the quantity needed by the government is obtained.

Sales of canned fruits and vegetables by home "packers and processors," if total output in a calendar year does not exceed a specified amount—ranging from 500 to 1,500 quarts—are exempt from price control.

Sumner Slichter, professor of economics at Harvard university, expects people "to use their unprecedented volume of liquid assets to satisfy the unprecedented volume of accumulated needs for consumer goods." Under these circumstances a rather rapid disappearance of consumer goods is expected to take place when this flood of purchasing power can be used.

Professor Slichter thinks that the demand for goods by individuals and business enterprises will keep 57 million persons employed without overtime. This is 25 per cent higher than before the war and about equivalent of that now prevailing, if those in the armed forces are excluded. This would produce about 155 billion dollars worth of goods a year.

He mentioned shortages in particular items as follows: Vacuum cleaners, 3.5 million; radio receivers, 20 million; electrical refrigerators, 5 million; electric irons, 10 million; washing machines, 3 million; and a deficiency in construction of residences since Pearl Harbor of 750 family units.

Paper dishes

Fashionably designed paper dishes to replace china in even the most elaborate homes and restaurants. The old corncocks, a few of which found further life as pipes but otherwise were waste, are now being used in some processes in the manufacture of butadiene. Other industrial uses are predicted for them . . . Wool socks and underwear which, treated by a new chemical process, will not shrink during laundering and will wear 50 per cent longer before they need darning.

Palatine cow rates fourth in nation

A registered Holstein cow in the herd owned by the estate of Herbert Mayer of Palatine was among the nation's highest producers in 1943 in its age group and milking classification of the yearly division of the advanced registry test, according to the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

Montvic Hiemke Rag Apple
Diana 2349487, as she is officially known, produced 19,011 pounds of milk and 738.9 pounds of butterfat which makes her the nation's fourth highest producing junior 3-year-old milked three times daily in the yearly division of the test.

This record will be listed in the 1943 Honor List, which is based on production exceeding advanced registry requirements by 66.6 per cent and announced annually to show the rank of cows meeting the high standards.

Other Illinois breeders having animals placing high in the nation are Beckman Brothers, Prairie View; Moosheart, Moosheart; Douglas, Knights, Sandwich, and
R. V. Rasmussen, Lake Forest.

More super-cows

Two state production records have been made by registered Holstein-Friesian cows owned by the Herbert Mayer Est., Palatine, the Holstein-Friesian Association of America announces today.

Shanley Bessie Dorothy is the new champion, taking the lead for all of Illinois' junior 3-year-old Holsteins milked twice daily in the yearly division, advanced registry test, with the production of 595.7 pounds of butterfat from 14,767
pounds of milk.

The other state leader was Shanley Bessie Marion, which takes the lead for all of Illinois' senior 3-year-old Holstein milked twice daily in the yearly division with the production of 589.1 pounds of butterfat and 15,539 pounds of milk. "Bessie" has been officially classified "very good" in type—the second highest score an animal can receive.

A third member of the herd recently completed a record entitling

MORE farm news page 10

her to second place in the yearly division for senior 4-year-old Holsteins on twice a day milking.
This cow, Calamity Nig of Elmwood Farms 2d, produced 629.9
pounds of butterfat from 16,965
pounds of milk. "Nig" has been officially classified "good plus" in type—the third highest score an animal can receive.

With Uncle Sam

Texas

Pvt. Willard Schuler of Wheeling received his medical discharge last week after about six months in the service, much of which he spent in the hospital. Willard speaks highly of medical care received. However the doctors failed to discover the cause of the high blood pressure which troubles Willard. He was stationed at Camp Hood, Texas, when discharged.

Utah

Now stationed at Wendover field, Utah, is Pvt. Philip Pittman of Roselle. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pittman. Phil was graduated from Glenbard High school in '43. Former schools attended while in service are Keesler and Ford Motor company factory school.

Shrapnel goes through helmet, misses sleeper

Shrapnel tore two holes the size of axe handles in Staff Sgt. Ferdinand J. Weidner's helmet as it lay on a box beside him in his tent, at the Marianas forward base of the 7th AAF fighter command, where he is crew chief of the thunderbolt fighter ship, "Ridiculous."

Weidner, 26, son of Mr. and Mrs. Engelbert Weidner, 921 North Dunton avenue, Arlington Heights, had gone to bed after spending several hours in his fox-hole during a Jap air raid.

Soon an artillery barrage opened up from a nearby Jap-held island. The first shell landed close and Weidner reached for his helmet. His groping fingers found nothing, so he got up and searched, to find the helmet 10 feet away on the floor, where it had been hurled by shrapnel fragments that had passed through his tent, leaving seven holes in the canvas, near Weidner's head.

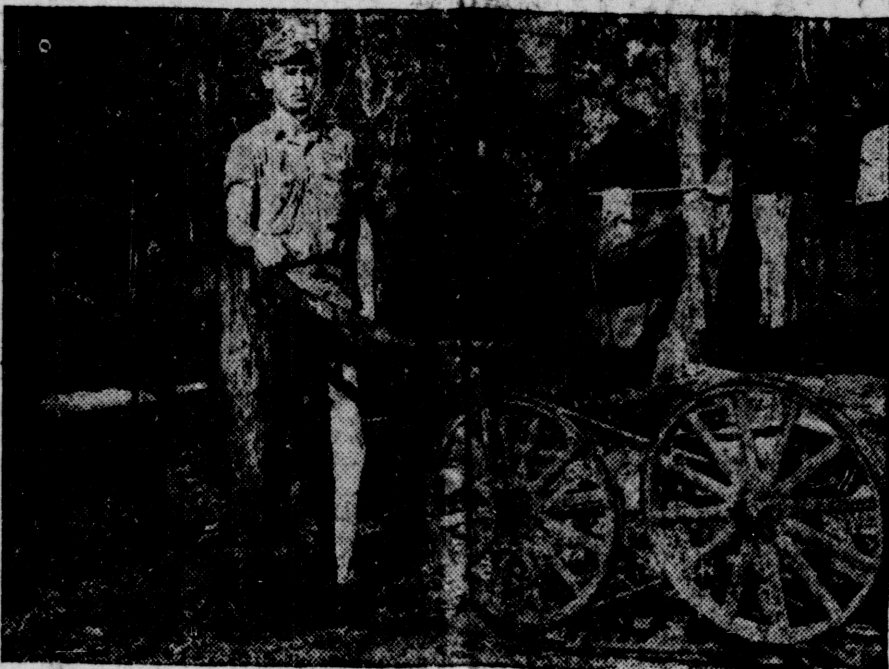

Jagged edges of the punctured helmet had lacerated the hip of a teammate, Staff Sgt. Orrin A. Madsen, of Salt Lake City.

Sergeant Weidner entered the service Nov. 4, 1940, and has been overseas three and a half years. He was an employee of the Creamery Package Mfg. Co., Arlington Heights.

His address is: S-Sgt. Ferdinand Weidner, 16003139, APO 244, c-o PM, San Francisco, Calif.

Now stationed at Great Lakes is John Boyer of Northbrook. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Boyer.

Leatherneck Washing Machine

Laundry problems on Pacific outposts are not as difficult as one might expect. An example of leatherneck ingenuity is demonstrated above by Corp. Billy G. Alexander of Amarillo, Tex. The clothes are placed in the half-barrel, with soap and water, and the plunger does the work. When an especially good job is desired, a fire is built under the barrel. The power? Oh, yes, propulsion is supplied by a hand-made windmill.

Says Douglas Job Best Way to Help Country and Self

Chicago, July 24—With our boys of the invasion forces locked in a life-or-death struggle with the Axis, now is no time for any patriotic American to be sitting on the sidelines, according to Julian C. Porter, former automobile engine builder with Marmon, White, and General Motors since 1905. Porter is now working as jig builder in the big new plant of Douglas Aircraft Company at Mannheim and Devon.

"Those boys of ours who are giving their lives in France, Italy, and in the Pacific are fighting my war as much as theirs," Porter said today. "If it were possible, I'd be there with them. Since it isn't, I'm doing the next best thing in this job here at Douglas. By helping to speed production of these giant Douglas planes which are so essential to our victory, I'm a definite part of the invasion drive. My conscience wouldn't permit me to do less at this fateful time in our country's history."

"Patriotism alone is enough reason for wanting to work here these days. But there are many other advantages to a Douglas job too. For one thing, no previous experience is needed. I happen to have spent years in motor design, manufacturing, and service. But there are thousands of Douglas employees who had no previous job experience. France

From France this week comes word of Christ Samulovitch of Arlington Heights. He spent seven months in England and landed safely in France during the invasion.

"Feeling fine except that I could use about a week of steady sleep. I do not know exactly what time it is on the date or day of week just asked the fellow next to me and he thinks it is the 27th of June."

"By the time this letter reaches home I'll be old enough to vote. The army picked a long way from home for me to become a man. I received the birthday gifts, a box of American eggs and candy from some which had a little to do with celebrating my birthday in a fox hole with other fellows. Also, the army must have known it was my birthday for I got the rating of sergeant."

"Stationary and time is scarce so I can not write to every one I would like to but that isn't saying 'ou folks back home can't write so keep right on writing. When I do have a few spare moments I'll see that I catch up on all correspondence."

His address is: Sgt. Christ W. Samulovitch, 36657591, APO 1, c-o PM, New York, N. Y.

From France comes word of Arnold Lichthardt of Elgin.

"I would like to say Helio from France to all my friends, although I would much rather be home than in this dry and sandy country. I have withstood three invasions and am feeling fine."

"Am still driving my 2½ ton truck. We are again working on two shifts, as we are very busy out here. We sleep in fox holes which is no fun, as the ground out here is as hard as a rock."

"I have been ever since now for 23 months and sure wish I could see home soon. The happiest day for us boys will be the day when we're on our way home to the good old U. S. A."

"I sure enjoy reading the home paper, and all the letters from the boys, so keep it rolling. And don't forget to keep on buying those war bonds, which is one way of helping your country."

His address is: Pfc Arnold E. Lichthardt, 36317588, APO 126, c-o PM, New York, N. Y.

From somewhere in France comes word of Frederick Lauterburg of Arlington Heights.

"Although I have been up to the front, I haven't been in actual combat as yet. There are cherry trees and strawberries here, and they sure taste good. We don't get much fresh fruit in our ordinary diet."

His address is: Cpl. Frederick G. Lauterburg, 36038805, APO 436, 7/2 PM, New York, N. Y.

Pennsylvania

Thomas J. R. Coleman, of Arlington Heights, has been assigned to the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia, under the V-12 Program which the Navy is conducting in various colleges and universities to train officer candidates.

Coleman, whose home is at 1516 Mayfair road, is a graduate of Arlington Heights township high school. He was in the V-12 unit at the University of Notre Dame before he was assigned to the unit at Pennsylvania.

up for army

A veteran of 17 months overseas in the North African and Italian theatres of operation as an ambulance driver for the American field service, Richard S. Smith, 25, of Larabee Lane, Northbrook, was last week inducted into the army as a private, July 13, at the Fort Sheridan recruit reception center.

When his application for enlistment in the army was rejected on account of his eyes, he signed up with the American field service. Having completed 17 months overseas he applied for transfer to the Burma theatre and was given a leave home. Before his leave was up he was notified by his Selective Service board to report for physical examination. Within a few days he will leave for basic training at an undisclosed training center.

"Good Soldier"

The proudest title in the Army

IT CONSISTS of two simple words.

Yet every soldier who's worth his salt covets it.

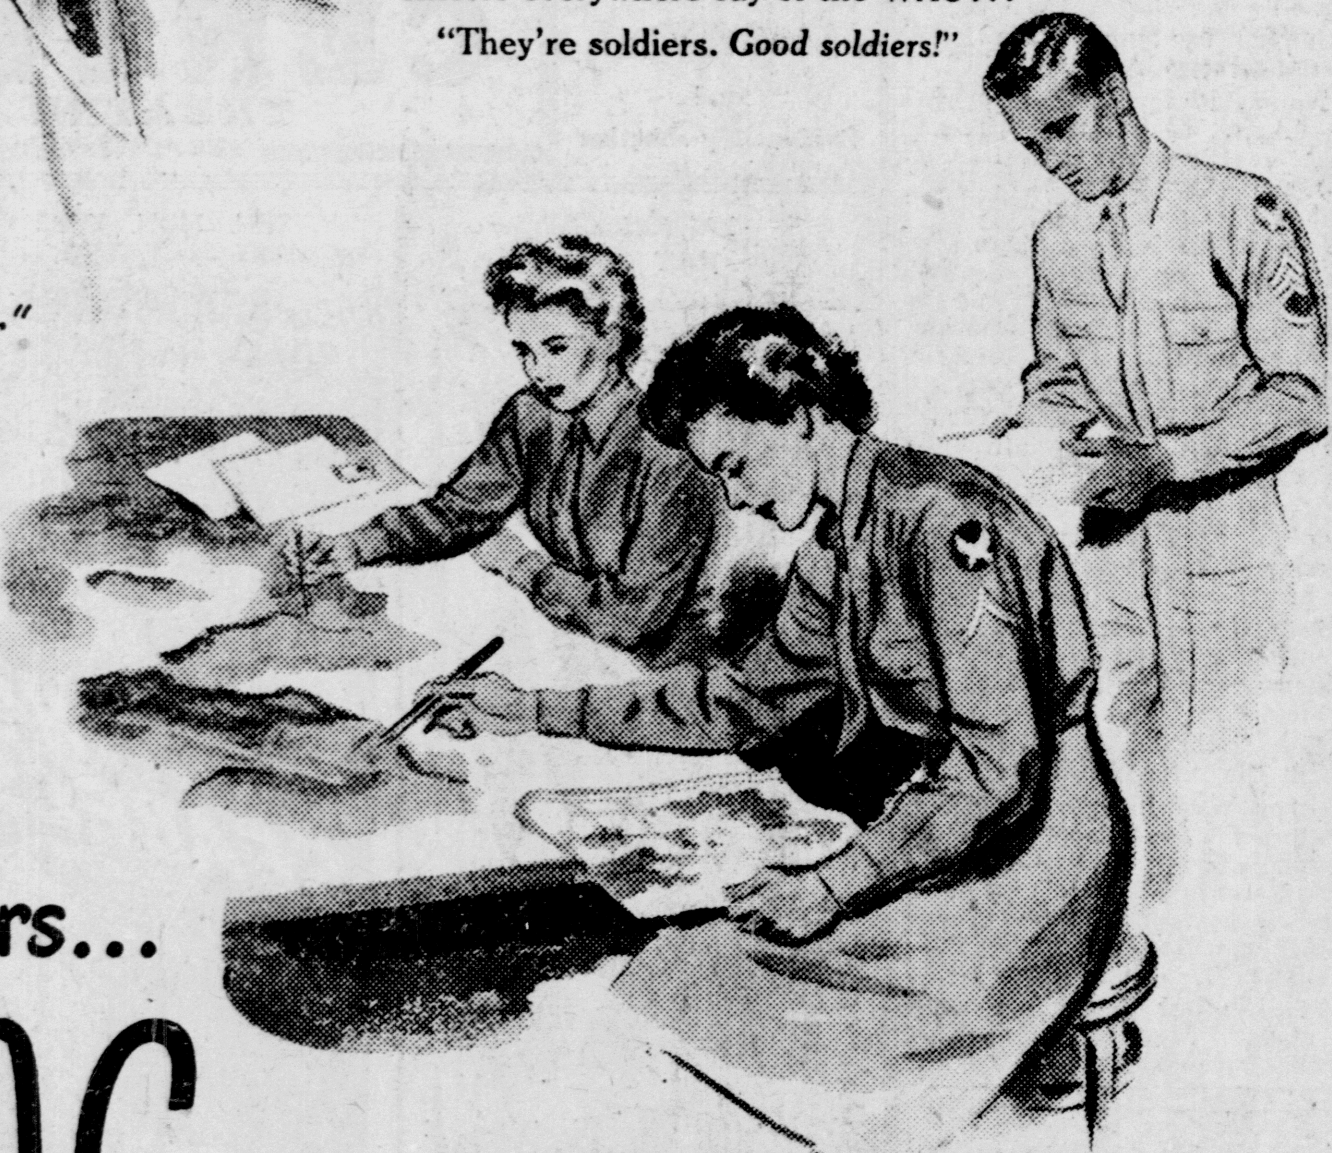

This title is simply:

"Good Soldier."

It isn't just happenstance that so many women in the WAC have earned this title—the proudest in the Army.

For wherever Wacs are working, both here and overseas, there you find a job well done. And done with a spirit so gallant and fine that high Army officers everywhere say of the WAC...

"They're soldiers. Good soldiers!"

Douglas plane sets non-stop record London - Wash., D. C.

The first non-stop flight from London to Washington, D. C., was made this week by an army transport command crew in a C-54, four-engine Douglas transport plane, the war department revealed today.

Veering from the normal route to make the most of favorable winds, the flight covered 3,800 miles and was made in exactly 18 hours elapsed time, averaging 210 miles per hour. It was one of the longest land-plane flights ever recorded. Normal time over the A.T.C. route from New York to Scotland, a considerably shorter distance, is between 20 and 22 hours.

Maj. Henry T. Myers of Tifton, Ga., pilot of the C-54, said that although he did not try to set a speed record he did take advantage of tail winds whenever possible. He had three hours fuel left on arrival.

The crew was the same that blazed a 3,200 mile trail from India to Australia about a year ago with a party of senators aboard.

LIFE WITH MOTHER

Dear Eleanore:

You're a great one, you are! I thought you warned me to "be-ware" of your next letter, that you were going to do some "boning?" I was prepared to hear criticisms from authentic sources in support of contemporary architecture and furnishings, when along comes your last letter and all you tell me is that if I look in the Architectural Forum for January, 1938, I'd find out that Frank Lloyd Wright is a genius. Gee whiz, I admitted that in a letter several weeks ago! You are taking this discussion seriously, aren't you? Or, have you turned diletante on me?

All kidding aside, here is a paragraph from a letter written by Edith M. Leis: "I thoroughly enjoyed any and all that might interest me to my home. I would prefer to have family pieces, but when there are too few heirlooms to acquire, the next best place to obtain them is in a friend's attic or basement. . . . A modern model house is fun to look at but a terrible bore to live with, in my humble opinion."

And Mary R. Mills writes: "Your articles in favor of antiques are excellent and convincing. Contemporary is functional and practical—which was the reason for its being born. You and I know our d—antiques are not always too useful—they can fall apart and they don't always fit into our present day living—that's why we love them! Maybe, we're tired of rushing and time saving—maybe, we like to look back on the easy-go-your-own-way kind of living."

Mabel Reinshagen writes quite feelingly: "I have read with a great deal of interest the letters you and your friend, Eleanore have been exchanging on Traditional Architecture and Old Furniture versus Contemporary Architecture and Modern Furniture. Being a woman, I can't bear to have a discussion of any sort going on without joining in. It has been said that a man thinks with his head and a woman with her heart. If that is true I must plead guilty to the charge, because I really know very little about periods in either furniture or architecture, except in a general sort of way. I only know what I like, but can't explain why. Perhaps my liking for the old is a form of nostalgia for the past."

"To me, the very names 'Mary' and 'Eleanore' are symbolic of their owner's choice of 'old' versus 'new.' 'Mary' is a simple, quaint, old-fashioned, homey sort of name, while 'Eleanore' is ornate, modern and formal."

"My mother's name was Mary. I loved her very much, and since losing her last winter my thoughts have been a great deal in the past. My memory of her fineness and sweetness so intermingled with the memory of a happy childhood spent in an old house with old furniture, that it is difficult to tell where one begins and the other leaves off."

"I wish you could spend a day with me in my old home. I would show you the 'black piano, the front of which had a panel of lattice work, backed with yellow silk. I was the youngest child and had the smallest hands, so it was my job to keep the piano dusted. I also had charge of dusting several small tables. They had marble tops and elaborately carved and curved legs."

"In the bedrooms the bureaus also had marble tops, some with the tops divided so that the mirror rested on a square between two rows of small drawers. The part of the kitchen I remember best is the sink. Above it was a shelf with a wooden clock on it. This clock had Roman numerals and it always mystified my family how I could tell the time when I was too young to even read regular numbers. The face of the clock was set in a wooden frame on which a scene was painted. I had discovered that certain events in the household, such as meal times, the times the older children left for and returned from school, also the time my father left in the morning and returned in the afternoon, coincided with certain parts of the picture. The lower part of the sink was enclosed with wood, with a door in front. This served the double purpose of concealing the pipes and furnished storage space besides. I found it a very convenient hiding place for a sticky mixing bowl or pans I didn't want to spend time on."

"The attic with its trunks and boxes full of old clothes and odds and ends was a fascinating place on rainy days."

"When my parents attended the 1893 World's fair they bought a number of books with large illustrations of the buildings, and I spent many happy hours pouring over them in that attic."

How about you?

Mary and Eleanore, corresponding editors of Life With Mother, have launched a discussion of Traditional Architecture and Old Furniture versus Contemporary Architecture and Modern Furniture. What are your opinions? Which type do you prefer? Mail your letter to Mary or Eleanore, care of this paper. Names may or may not be mentioned, depending on the reader's desires.

"I think it was Frank Lloyd Wright who said that the style of the buildings at the 1893 fair had set architecture in the United States back at least 50 years. Perhaps my taste in architecture was formed when I was a child for I was very much disappointed in the buildings of the 1933 World's fair. I thought it cheap and tawdry in comparison to the pictures in my parent's books. I really only enjoyed the various villages, and they of course were replicas of villages in countries far older than our own."

"I can see Eleanore's point of view, however. Taking care of her lively quartet doesn't leave her much time or energy for frills and furbelows. She is a wise and good mother to spend her time with the children while they are at this age when they need constant attention and supervision."

"It is true that an old house is harder to care for than a new one, but anything worth while takes time and effort. Somehow, when we gather in the living-room in the evening to read, listen to the radio or sew, and I look around at the old-fashioned windows with their eight panes of glass each and ruffled curtains, the chairs with their flowered slip covers, the maple lamps, the old soft wood floors with their wide boards painted and waxed, I like to feel that not only my time and work but a certain intangible part of myself has gone into making our home a refuge of peace and quiet in these days of strain and worry—truly a 'place with a world of strife shut out and a world of love shut in.'"

I can't think of another thing I might add this week for my side of our discussion. I think these writers did pretty well for me, don't you?

We're expecting Bob for the week-end, so I guess I'll stop now and see what I can whip up in the culinary art. You know, I'm not any too good at cake baking, and cakes are just what he wants every time he comes home.

Much love to all your dear ones from all of us. Mary.

Squash Storage

Late-maturing varieties of squash may be kept satisfactorily until late winter under fairly simple conditions of storage. While a dry, above ground frost-proof place is best, it may be kept in a storage room in the basement or in a dry, well-ventilated cellar. If storage space is limited, squash may be preserved for use later by canning or dehydrating.

4-H achievement days to be held at Des Plaines

At the 4-H County achievement days to be held at the Lutheran church, Blue Island, on July 31 and the Congregational church, Des Plaines, on August 1, 454 4-H girls will exhibit their summer projects in the form of a food's display and a fashion show. All of the 35 4-H clubs have been working diligently during the summer months under the guidance of their capable 4-H leaders, to complete their foods or clothing projects in time for the Achievement days.

Doors will open at 9:00 a. m. at which time girls taking clothing projects will assemble for a discussion of the good and bad points of their garments. This will be led by Mrs. Elsie Ross Butler, 4-H clothing specialist from the University of Illinois and Mrs. Virginia Sakelson, home economist from Park Ridge. At the same time girls exhibiting various foods will have a similar discussion led by Mrs. Clara Dehl Upham, home economist from Evergreen Park.

In the afternoon, starting promptly at 1:15 p. m. the official program will start. A number of food's skits and demonstrations will be given by some of the clubs taking foods. This will be followed by a fashion revue in which over 300 girls will model the garments they have made. Leaders of the clubs will announce the girls as they appear on the stage.

The girls 4-H club work in Cook county is for girls between the ages of 10 and 21 and is directed by the University of Illinois extension service; Mrs. Marie Corneliussen, county adviser.

The public is invited to attend the achievement days and observe the fine home economics projects which these girls have accomplished.

The Arlington Heights Health center affiliated with the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook county.

Not long ago I read that the War food administration had disposed of 4,377,000,000 pounds of food from January to June, 1944. Most of this went to lend-lease and the rest to the armed services, the Red Cross and others.

With so much food not available for civilian consumption it is so important that we conserve what we can buy and what we do grow in our victory gardens. One way to do this, of course, is home canning. Before you undertake this task, however, there are a few precautions to remember:

1. Boil all jars and cans before using.
2. If you use jars, make sure they are air tight.
3. Non-acid vegetables, as corn, peas, beans, beets, and greens should be properly canned in a pressure cooker that has been tested.

On the whole, home canners are careful, but since most deaths from canned food have been due to the eating of the home-canned variety, follow these steps before serving:

1. Boil all home-canned foods for 15 minutes to destroy all poisonous organisms.
2. Never even taste a home-canned food that has a disagreeable odor or looks spoiled. Just a taste may cause sudden death.
3. Any sign of sickness following eating of home-canned foods should be immediately reported to your doctor.

4. Keep opened, home-canned foods in the refrigerator.

Another way to conserve food is to store the fresh root vegetable such as carrots, beets, onions, pumpkin and potatoes. If you properly dry peas, corn, green beans, they will be very usable at later dates.

Let's all do our utmost to reduce food waste. Food values depend somewhat on good storage.

Bushdown flight kit is Red Cross overseas kit

American Red Cross girls at an Air Transport command base on the African coast decided that transient plane crews and ground crews at lonely bushland outposts needed recreation and comfort kits to make their tedious flights and stations more comfortable.

From unused American Red Cross Christmas boxes these enterprising girls took playing cards, razor blades, stationery, cigarettes, matches. To this they added magazines and even moth-eaten editions of hometown Sunday newspapers. They descended upon the quartermaster corps and special service branch of the army for additional supplies. Result? The Bushdown flight kit.

Each kit, packed in a number 16 paper bag, contains six magazines, five packages of cigarettes, gum, hard candy, Red Cross post cards, pencils, 20 pieces of V-mail, comb, razor blades, and other items.

Says Sara Smerud, American Red Cross worker from New Albin, Ia., "We give the kit to a crew member, who places it aboard his ship with the understanding that if they do not need it themselves they will drop it off at some bush station where supplies are difficult to get."

Hundreds of Bushdown flight kits are distributed each month to ferry pilots, and are accepted as part of the equipment on each combat plane. One pilot enthusiastically remarked, "This is a swell kind of Red Cross service, and we sure appreciate it."

Mrs. Garibaldi's work was to promote a nutrition program in this community. We are now appealing to any and all organizations to make use of the valuable material available through the war food administration office of distribution, 209 W. Jackson Blvd., Room 600, Chicago, 6, Ill.

The sub-committees of the Chicago nutrition committee will furnish speakers, movies, film strips, demonstrators, and ideas for exhibits to interested groups free of charge.

We hope that every organized group; church, school, civic or so-

LOCAL BRIDE HELPS BUILD AIRCRAFT FOR INVASION

Douglas Job Best Way for Women to Help Our Soldiers Win

Chicago, July 24—Women can't travel, gun in hand, to the Invasion Coast of France in Landing Ships, but they can still play an essential part in victory by building aircraft, according to one attractive Chicago woman. She is Mrs. Frank J. De Costa, now a worker in the cost department at the big new plant of Douglas Aircraft at Mannheim and Devon. Mrs. De Costa formerly was a student of dramatic art at the Chicago Conservatory and of radio and drama at Columbia School of Fine Arts.

"I couldn't be contented at a time like this when our young men are risking their lives to bring us victory unless I too did my share," Mrs. De Costa said today. "That's the chief reason why I am glad to be working here at Douglas. By helping to turn out these giant Douglas transport planes which are the backbone of our invasion effort, I feel that I'm part of the war effort. When I think of the lives these planes will save by bringing munitions, supplies and reserves to the battle lines and wounded back to safety, I get an immense sense of satisfaction."

No Experience Needed

"There are other reasons for being happy in a Douglas job. Working conditions are pleasant and we enjoy many special advantages—including excellent food at low cost, good pay, recreation and social events such as dances and parties, vacation pay plan, congenial companions, training with pay for the inexperienced. I can recommend a job at Douglas for any woman who isn't willing to sit out the war," Mrs. De Costa concluded.

How to Apply

It's easy to apply for a well-paid job at Douglas Aircraft. There are branch offices at 4070 Milwaukee Ave., and at 2717½ Milwaukee Ave., open week days from 9:30 to 7 p. m. Or if convenient come direct to the Douglas plant at Mannheim and Devon. Buses leave from Grand and Harlem, Belmont and 80th, Milwaukee and Devon, Irving Park and Narragansett, Milwaukee and Higgins, Diversey and Harlem, Addison and Cumberland, Higgins and Canfield, and Park Ridge or Des Plaines, Illinois.—Adv.

on a bomber

"Do not let anybody tell you that they are not scared when they start on a flight mission over enemy country," was the reply that Lt. Paul Carroll, Jr., made at a meeting of the Arlington Heights Lions Club July 18, at which he was a guest.

He gave an interesting talk on his eighty-one missions in the South West Pacific. His hearers could "read between the lines" and get an idea of many of the things that he was not permitted to tell.

Lt. Carroll came back on the Liberator bomber which stopped enroute at Hawaii, San Francisco, Arizona, and was coming to Chicago when weather conditions grounded the plane in Ohio.

The boys from the Pacific thought they had a large plane until they saw a B-29. The plane's crew broke up in Pennsylvania where the Liberator stopped for repairs. Lt. Carroll came to Chicago on the train and is now recruiting WACs in Chicago.

Scott Field

Pvt. Jack Haben, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor J. Haben, Prairie View, has just been graduated from Scott Field radio school of the Army Air Forces Training Command. His intensive training here saw him complete a course in Radio Operator-Mechanics.

Now qualified for further duty as a skilled Radio technician on the world wide battle fronts of the AAF, he may become one of the many Scott Field graduates serving as members of the American bomber crews.

In civilian life a student, a attended Highland Park, Chicago Techn.

Illinois

Graduated from the Naval training school (diesel) on the University of Illinois campus, Urbana, Ill., Bluejacket Gerald Eugene Fowle, 18, son of Mrs. Freda Ana Fowle, R. 2, Bensenville, Ill., received recognition as eligible to qualify for the petty officer rate of motor machinist's mate third class.

Selection to the specialty school is based on results of recruit training aptitude test scores. The course of study includes the use, operation and maintenance of diesel engines. A theoretical phase is concerned with diesel engine theory, electrical fundamentals and machine shop operation.

New Guinea

Lt. Donald Bingham of Wheeling, of the South Pacific Air Transport Command, is stationed somewhere in New Guinea. He writes of enjoying such modern conveniences as electricity and telephones and that they have plenty of fresh foods.

No. Carolina

Private Robert Luckner of Mt. Prospect is home on furlough visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luckner of Mt. Prospect. He is at present stationed at Camp Buell, North Carolina.

Italy

T5 Mary Kleinow, a member of the WAC, is now stationed in Italy. She is the sister of Mrs. George Kolze, Lawrence avenue, Itasca. Before she received her present assignment T5 Kleinow was stationed in North Africa.

"All is well and I enjoyed a very fine trip; it was truly wonderful. Up to a certain hour we were allowed on deck. I have spent the Fourth of July in many places, but this is something different. Italy is truly different from Africa and looks more like the United States. The corn is knee high and there are vegetables and fruits of all kinds."

T5 Kleinow entered the service 15 months ago and received her basic and specialized training at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga. She has served overseas as a cook attached to a WAC communication company since November, 1943.

From Italy comes word of Marvin Horcher of Elk Grove. "Received another copy of the Herald yesterday and I appreciated it very much. Right now I'm getting over a case of spinal meningitis. This is my 57th day in the hospital and we sure get treated swell. It's heaven compared to the lines."

"We left Africa and came to sunny Italy last January when it wasn't very sunny. My first taste of combat was right after San Vittore. A few days before we hit Cassino the first time. A lot of things have happened since then."

His address is Pfc Marvin Horcher, 36753723, 2628 Hosp. Sect., APO 698, c-o PM, New York, N. Y.

From Naples, Italy, comes word of Sgt. Misowic of Palatine. "Just a few lines to let you know that I receive the Palatine Enterprise regularly. To say I enjoy it very much would be putting it mildly."

"Next month will be two years, overseas for me. Except for being lonesome for the home folks, I have no complaints. Chow is good and my mail comes regularly, including the Enterprise."

His address is: Sgt. C. Misowic, 36317604, APO 782, c-o PM, New York, N. Y.

Valdimar Hernandez of 670 Luda street, Elgin, has been promoted to the rank of Technician third grade, from that of Technician fourth grade, according to a recent announcement from his unit headquarters in Italy. T3 Hernandez, who has been a member of the United States Air force since March 2, 1942, is the husband of Mrs. Marjorie F. Hernandez of Elgin. He is a graduate of the Elgin High school.

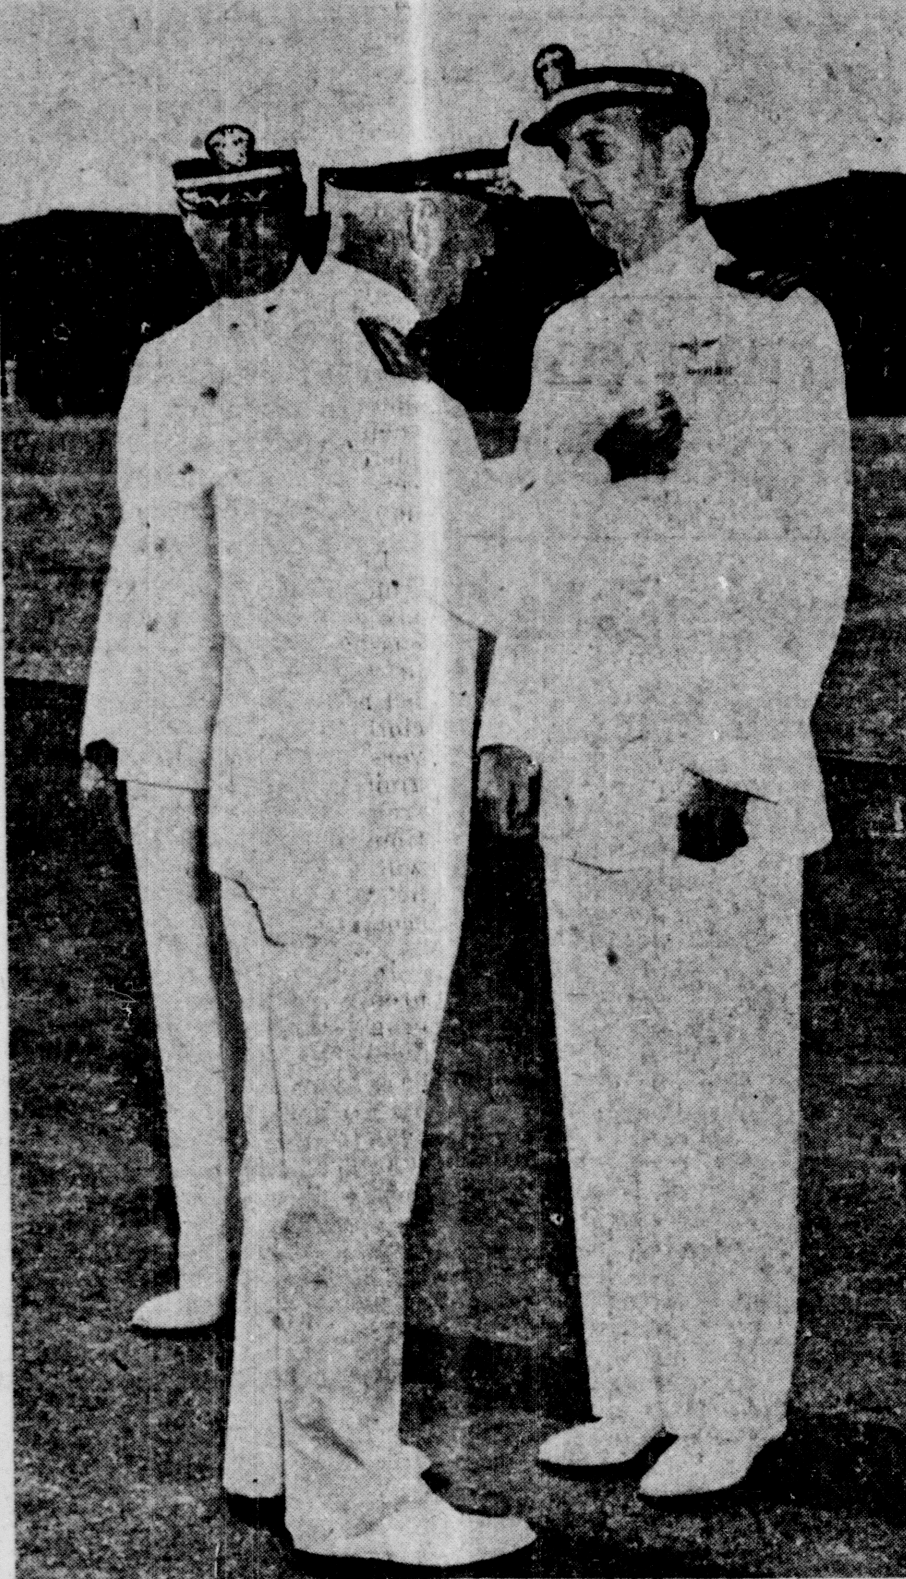

Prior to entering the army, T3 Hernandez was employed as an electrician. He is a radio technician with a Fifteenth air force service command signal company.

Kentucky

Maryland

Ensign John Hubbard of Mt. Prospect is home on a ten-day leave from Patuxent River, Maryland, where he is stationed with the Naval Air Station.

Lt. Walter Lewis Hahn, Jr., of Route 2, Palatine, is shown receiving from Rear Admiral C. P. Mason, USN, Commandant of the Naval Air Training Center, Corpus Christi, Texas, the Air Medal, awarded for his achievement during the bombardment and occupation of Roi and Namur Islands by a task force. He also rescued a pilot who parachuted near enemy lines. Capt. Jackson R. Tate, USN, deputy commandant of NATC, is standing by to receive a gold star in lieu of a third Legion of Merit. (Official U. S. Navy Photograph.)

Ohio

William L. Neubauer, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Neubauer, 209 E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, has just enrolled in the Navy V-12 unit at Denison university, Granville, O. Entrance into the special training unit enables the student seaman to take a series of approved university courses. The regular academic curriculum is supplemented with military drill, physical education and naval organization. The young bluejacket will also have the opportunity to participate in competitive sports and campus activities.

Satisfactorily completing the V-12 program the seaman will be sent to one of the many midshipman schools established for the training of naval reserve officers.

After successful completion of the midshipman course, the officer candidate then may be commissioned as an ensign in the U. S. Navy reserve.

Enlist

The name of Leslie Lawrence Whitaker, 109 W. Ridge Avenue, was added to the Honor Roll of Prospect Heights last Thursday, when he was inducted into the army. He was sent to Fort Sheridan, and is stationed there temporarily. His wife and two sons will remain in the community for the duration. Prior to his induction he was employed at the Stewart-Warner Corporation.

Mr. Whitaker celebrated his birthday Tuesday, so his wife and family brought a cake out during evening visiting hours to help him celebrate the occasion.

Walter C. Borman, Jr., 303 E. Willow Road, Prospect Heights, husband of Kay Borman, will leave Monday of next week for service in the Navy. He enlisted and will receive a commission as lieutenant (j. g.). Prior to his enlistment, he practiced law. His wife

Can you take it?

Don't read this if you can't face the realities of war.

We have a friend who asked a returning Africa-Sicily vet, "but don't you go back to camp to sleep at night?"

This isn't for her. Or maybe it is.

Reaching our desks this week is a letter written by Al Duenn of Arlington Heights, who is serving with the fifth army in Italy.

"Am still driving a tank and, brother, the boys riding with me get a real ride. I had the command tank in my platoon recently and that made me sweat a little more."

"We did our share of damage and I had the chance to fire a German rifle at the Germans. I don't claim any hits, but I know there were no more heads popping up in that area."

"I sometimes wonder how the folks back home will treat us dog-faces when we come back. This war is hard on the nerves and I'm not kidding. I aged ten years in my 21 months over here. It was all put in the infantry, too."

"A guy will never forget his experiences over here. I've had pals of mine get hit just a few feet from where I was stationed. These guys never knew what hit them, and it happened a long time ago. Instead of forgetting it I remember it more each day."

"I have also seen direct hits on foxholes. People back home won't believe all this, but when I get back home I don't want anyone to ask me anything. I want to be left alone because I may be a little hard to get along with for a while."

"I've seen plane crashes and dog-fights at about 30,000 feet. I've seen Fords go down in flames with guys bailing out, only to have their parachutes catch on fire. I've seen the Kraut planes hit the dirt a lot more than our own."

"I've shot my share of machine gun bullets at the German planes but again don't claim any hits. I've had a kid from Minnesota break down and cry when the Germans started to bomb us. The bombs fell a good two hundred yards away, but they still scare a guy."

His address is Cpl. Albert E. Duenn, 36003997, APO 3, % PM, New York, N. Y.

Massachusetts

Scheduled to leave again to return to duty Wednesday after 9 days at home in Arlington Heights was Margaret Wichmann of the SPARS. Margaret arrived home July 16. She is now stationed in Boston, Massachusetts, in the training office.

Nevada

Home on 15 days furlough from Las Vegas, Nev., is Gail Petersen of Arlington Heights. He arrived Friday at his home, 1325 N. Dunton.

and young son Walter will remain in the community for the duration. A group of friends and neighbors surprised Walter with a party Monday evening, a sort of an open house affair so that they could all say good bye and wish him luck.

Alabama

Among these recently completing the nine weeks pilot transition training course on four-engine Liberator bombers at Maxwell Field, Ala., is 2nd Lt. Robert A. Kraft, of 51 Northwest Hwy., Palatine. Lt. Kraft was hand-picked by Army air force experts as having the qualities needed to become a commander of four-engine battle craft, and his training has been as complete and thorough as the AAF training command can make it.

Pfc. James Utpadel of Wheeling is now stationed at Camp Pendleton, Oceanside, California, where he is with a Field Signal Bn. Jim says the redeeming feature of his new post has been meeting up with a number of fellow veterans of the Solomons invasion who were fortunate enough to be returned to the States. Jim has been troubled with some recurrence of the tropical disease which took him out of the combat area.

California

Reporting from California this week is Albert McDougall of Arlington Heights. "Am out here in California to take amphibious training which lasts a few months. We don't know where we'll go next, but I do have an idea. How about some mail from my friends?"

His address is A-C Inf. McDougall, Co. A, 386th Inf., APO 445, Camp San Luis Obispo, Calif.

Home from Fort Ord, California, for a few days is Sgt. Elmer Hallen of Northbrook. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hallen.

Farm scientists report about tenure problems

Ways to improve the ownership and operation of farm land are outlined in a new bulletin prepared by a committee of agricultural economists from 13 midwestern states, the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the Farm Foundation (the latter institution sponsored the work.) The major aim is to stimulate a program of research and individual thought which will lead to improvement in land tenure.

The committee recalls the depression of the thirties with its aftermath of widespread farm debt, mortgage foreclosure, increased tenancy and unstable occupancy. "The present war is almost certain to create situations that will intensify still further some of the problems farm people meet in buying and paying for farms," they state.

The organization of the committee is as follows: H. C. M. Case, Illinois, chairman; Joseph Ackerman, Farm Foundation, secretary; and Director Noble Clark, Wisconsin, administrative advisor representing experiment station directors of the cooperating states. There are also representatives of other states.

The recommendations of this group are significant in that the 13 cooperating states produce three-fourths of the nation's principal food grains, three-fourths of the hogs, three-fourths of all cattle and one-half of all milk and eggs.

The scope of the report is indicated by the following major recommendations which are discussed in some detail, together with means of meeting the problems involved:

1. The way should be kept open for the majority of farm tenants to become farm owners.
2. Continuous operation of the home farm by succeeding generations of the same family should be encouraged.
3. Appropriate measures should be taken to discourage the inflation of land prices.
4. Farm mortgage terms should be so drawn as to facilitate and maintain the ownership of farms by those who operate them.
5. Appropriate and effective steps should be taken to improve landlord-tenant relations.
6. Tenure arrangements should be developed which will safeguard and improve our basic farm resources—soil.
7. Plans need to be developed for the postwar adjustment of rents and wages.
8. Improvements should be added to many farms, both owner operated and then operated to encourage the most efficient operation.
9. Families now living on inadequate farms should be encouraged to locate on better farms or to obtain better employment.
10. New land programs should be developed in areas near cities where there is a merging of urban and rural economy.
11. Postwar, back-to-the-land movements should be carefully guided and controlled.

This bulletin treats of such timely problems as helping servicemen select farms to rent or buy and combating the present tendency to land inflation and the depletion of soil resulting from the heavy agricultural production of the war period. Emphasizing the family size farm, the report states: "It is still considered desirable to have a relatively high proportion of farms of family size operated by the owners." Attention is called, however, to the fact that "most parts of this country are faced with a high percentage of farm tenancy and a heavy mortgage indebtedness."

Ranger alfalfa proven on Rohlwing farm

"In 1941 with the cooperation of Herman Rohlwing a number of varieties of alfalfa were planted in plots on his farm near the intersection of 53 and 58. The balance of this field was sown to Grimm alfalfa. To date after three years we are finding that most of the alfalfa according to Mr. Rohlwing, Grimm is beginning to thin out. However, this is a very good field of alfalfa and normally should stand at least another year. In these varieties tested there is one variety that is practically as good as it was the first year and produces a very fine quality of hay. This alfalfa was developed by the department of agriculture and for years went under the experimental number A-136. However, it has been named Ranger and in a number of places where it has been tried it has been found to be popular. We have grown these plots and this particular variety and suggest that farmers that come south on Route 53 stop just before the overhead and take a look at these plots of alfalfa."

"Nearby they may be interested in three plots of corn that were planted as a test of European corn borer. One plot was planted May 7, another May 17, and another May 27th. The latter part of August we plan a field meeting to look these alfalfa and corn plots over," states Farm Adviser C. A. Hughes.

Corn borer does not mean loss of local crop

We think a great many farmers are over-excited about possible damage to their field corn because of corn borer invasion. We believe the infestation this year has been held to a minimum because the planting was made the latter half of May. Most stalks that have one or two borers in it will not be cut in yield more than one or two per cent. It requires up to 15 borers per stalk to cause an appreciable decrease in yield. There are reports of 30 and 50 borers per stalk which have ruinous effects on corn yields," states Farm Adviser C. A. Hughes. "At the present rate we do not believe corn in Cook county will be reduced very much because of borer damage. The mere fact that a few tassels are knocked over and a few borers are going through the stalk does not mean a great deal. Had the farmers planted their corn quite a bit earlier we think the damage would have been worse. On the other hand growers of early sweet corn who planted rather early have enough borers in their corn to render it unsalable. We do not believe that the prospects for sweet corn growers are very good and we are expecting that the crop in a year or two will be greatly reduced."

Scavenger bugs with corn borer not harmful

"One of the questions about corn borer that is being asked more frequently perhaps than damage that the corn borer is doing with reference to the small black bug with reddish spots on it found in the tunnels made by the corn borer," states Farm Adviser C. A. Hughes. "These bugs are incidental to the corn borer and do no damage whatever. They are called scavenger bugs and frequently are found in other types of plant tissues that are eroded by insects. The frass are cuttings and juices that result from worm or insect damage where it is tunneled or a deep gash which will bring scavenger bugs. They merely live on cut plant tissue juices and such material.

"There are no injurious effects on the crops on which they live whatever and no attention need be paid to them. They are merely incidental to the corn borer and in no way cause any damage to the crop."

Corn goes to war

From corn we get core binder to mix with moulding sand for aluminum castings. Corn starch for sizing for Army textiles, tents, parachutes. A waterproofing is made for coating packages for water proofing. An insect bomb for killing insects in tents, Penicillin, a drug, sulfa drugs are made from corn. Glucose a food for wounded soldiers, especially land mine injured soldiers who cannot take food through the mouth. There are a few of the uses of corn in war.

England

Now in England is Roy Beese of Arlington Heights.

"Here I am in old England. Had a fairly nice boat trip over here. Got sickier than a dog one day. The country around here is beautiful. There are some nice homes around here, some of them nicer than those in Scarsdale. Others again are old, but there are no slums.

"Weather today was cloudy and damp. Yesterday was cloudy and damp. Tomorrow will be cloudy and damp. Wish you could send me some of that Illinois sunshine. That is the only thing wrong with this country so far."

His address is Pvt. Roy Beese, 36688987, APO 80, 5 PM, New York, N. Y.

Lawrence E. Pingel, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Pingel, 190 Virgel St., Maple Park, formerly Arlington Heights, has been promoted from technician, 5th grade, to sergeant with the 25th Infantry division in the South Pacific.

Pingel is a motor sergeant in the medical battalion of the 25th Infantry division. He was inducted in February, 1942, and went overseas in May of the same year.

Sergeant Pingel was with the 25th division through the Guadalcanal and New Georgia campaigns. Besides the Asiatic Pacific theatre ribbon, he is authorized to wear the good conduct medal.

Washington

From Whidbey island, Washington, comes word of Bill Hartmann of Palatine.

"Up here at Whidbey island, or I should say Washington, the weather is swell. One couldn't ask for better weather. It gets pretty hot in the daytime, but cools off at night.

"A wonderful thing happened the other day. A fellow who looked familiar came into our shop. I thought I must have known him a long time back. We got to talking and I'll be darned if it wasn't him. He originally came from Arlington, a fellow by the name of Kline. It sure was good to see him.

"Conditions are pretty good on this base, for there aren't many of us here. This place serves as a sending out base. Sometimes, though, they are sent to Bremerton, Wash., or California.

"The base is just out of the states but they recently classified it as a part of Washington. You'll find it listed on the map as San Juan island. There is a group of islands here, of which Whidbey is the largest. It is about three miles from Fort Casey, our army camp."

His address is Bill Hartmann, SLC, Naval air station, Box B-3, Whidbey Island, Wash.

From Key Port, Wash., comes word of Oscar Laurance of Wheeling.

"Have meant to write sooner but the navy keeps one busy these days hopping from one station to the other. One thing for sure they have the finest schools in the country. When a sailor completes school, he is able to take his place in the fleet without being afraid of not knowing his job.

"After being in primary and advanced school these last six months I can realize how much the navy offers to fellows who haven't had the chance to learn a trade. It sure means a lot when you get out there and you are on your own, to know what to do at the proper time.

"Before I forget it, why haven't the Red Wings been putting their scores in the paper. As a former player I sure would like to hear now the team is making out. My address is:

Oscar Laurance, TMIC, 9422884, Group 1B, Sec. 3, Advanced Torpedo school, Key Port, Wash.

'Tokyo Rose' is friend of men in So. Pacific

In the midst of a thirty-day leave at home is William Oas of Arlington Heights. Bill is in the Navy, and is a member of a land based amphibious force. It is called an "Acorn" unit, of which the utmost secrecy is required.

"When our forces hedge hop another notch toward Japan, the Sea Bees move in to prepare the landing strips, and then we arrive. Our job is maintenance of aircraft.

It's quite a job, with plenty of chance for action. When things quiet down in that particular sector, we move on as the army moves in.

"Our main station, where I lived for three months during my year overseas, was Green Island. It is a mile by 13 mile crescent shaped island just north of the Solomons. It's almost all coral, and has a few hills.

"We saw a few enemy planes around Green Island, but they never provided too much opposition. Every man had his own fox-hole in case trouble came, however. I had mine a long distance from where I lived most of the time, but there were hills near between which I could crawl.

Tokyo Rose

"Biggest attraction on Green Island was the nightly appearance of 'Tokyo Rose' every night on the radio. We suspected her to be a Japanese woman, though her English was so Americanized that it made you wonder if she hadn't received her education in the States.

"The program came on every night at 8:30 with a variety program. Most of it was news, with badly distorted views. They would many times announce more American planes downed than we knew had been sent out. 'Rose' was always twisting the news from home, trying to instill doubts in our minds as to the 'home front' effort in the war. All of us just laughed at the broadcasts. It was sort of a morale builder, and it was termed just that by 'Rose' herself.

"We couldn't quite understand why the Japs used such a weak method of propaganda, but maybe they figured that, no matter how outlandish it was, a little bit would settle in your mind.

Islands lousy

"Those tropical islands are certainly not fit for a white man. Each additional group that arrives on an island improves it, but when this war is over, I doubt if they will ever be used. The weather and land are just unfit. Every disease you ever heard of is prevalent including leprosy, elephantitis, and others, except measles. A good many men have contracted these diseases. Lack of experience in treating these diseases makes much of the treatment experimental.

"Green Island is a comparatively 'new' island. As a result, there are no wells on the island. We often attempted to dig some, but there was no water. All of our drinking water came from the ocean through converters. Of course, it rained plenty, which provided us with showers and some drinking water.

"I rigged up a shower that worked fine. I cut a big opening in an ex-gas tank with split bamboo to catch the water from my tent. I also carried a spigot that I could plug in and get as much water as I needed. We even drank some of it when our supply of ocean water ran out.

Just what you make it

"Life on Pacific islands is just what you make it. Some fellows write about how tough it is, others find it easy. It is just a matter of adopting yourself to the conditions at hand and turning all handicaps to your advantage. As soon as you get onto the ropes on a new island you make yourself 'comforts of home' and find life a lot easier.

"There were some trees on Green Island, giving us a little lumber to work with. For a while everything was short there and it was hard to get anything from the states, including lumber. Thus, we used the mahogany and ebony wood at hand. We all made decks for our tents, lifting them off the ground through use of large logs. This made life a lot drier.

"A big activity on the island was in trading. You always find someone who wanted whatever you had to trade. One thing that almost everyone wanted was a jeep. You could usually find someone who had one who was willing to trade it for a few cases of beer, or some money. The jeeps were usually camouflaged, not from the enemy, but from your buddies. Whenever you wanted to take a drive around the island, you dug it out of hiding, stopped at a roadside filling station, and drove on.

"Gas was plentiful down there, with tanks and stores of it everywhere. All you had to do was stop at any of the storage lots, tap a tank, and away you'd go. It seems wrong to have so much down there, including so much wasted, and then come home and hear of a gas shortage.

They're all 'gooks'

"There weren't many natives on Green Island but the 'Gooks' were in abundance on Wallis Island. We all traded with them, though many of them seemed to have more money than we did. They were all molynesians (black) but you soon got used to them. Whenever trading with them you had to watch them, for they would rob you blind, if they could. In such a case you threatened to call the police. Worse still, threaten to call the priest, as they were all-powerful.

"On Wallis there was a French Catholic priest that dictated absolute order to the natives, and was making a darn good living himself. He got a cut out of whatever the natives would have, especially black pearls. If any natives failed to obey the priest they would be flogged and beaten. Seemed a mighty harsh treatment for the natives.

"All natives are like little children waiting to be led. They are afraid of the Japs, but do not fear the white man. We sold a good many useless dime store trinkets for dollars that they couldn't use anyway. They have a lot of customs we had never heard of before, but we soon got used to them.

Cross equator

"I crossed the equator twice on my trip, going and coming. Just so happened that going down it was on June 24, 1943, at 2 p. m., while coming back it was June 24, 1944, at 4 p. m. Almost one year, to the hour. Of course we were initiated into Rex Neptunus on the way down, making us lifetime shellbacks.

"My initiation included putting on full pack (though in the navy our particular outfit carried a full pack and rifle) and erecting a tent on the steel deck. It was quite a job as we couldn't drive stakes into the deck, but had to tie the tent with a lot of lines. Some boys had heads shaven, were covered with mustard, and were ducked into a collapsible salt water tank. The spectators were always dirtier than the initiates."

Bill entered the service as an aviation cadet in December, 1942. He was later changed to his present outfit, shipping out from New Orleans, Louisiana. His trip included Wallis Island, two months, Green Island for three months, back to Wallis, New Caledonia and others. He reports to Port Hueneme, California, August 4 for further duty.

Sgt. Lowell Hartliep, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Hartliep of 108 N. Dwyer street, Arlington Heights, Ill., upon completion of five weeks of intensive training has graduated from the parachute rigging and packing school, one of the three specialist schools offered by Fort Benning, Ga., only qualified jumpers may apply and applicants are carefully selected.

Riggers are the men, who pack and maintain the parachutes. They are responsible for the safe operation of this highly technical equipment. It is part of their creed to be willing to jump any chute they have packed.

Riggers school is divided into five stages of instruction. The men learn first to pack different types of parachutes. They then become acquainted with the sewing machine and begin the fundamentals of repair work. The third step entails instruction in hand sewing. Next they study maintenance. Using blueprints different harnesses are built and all types of equipment constructed and repaired. The last stage is a week of instruction in aerial delivery of supplies.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Mary and I were just saying, Judge, how lucky we are here in America that we have so many natural resources to help win the war."

"That's right, Jim. When war broke out we had oil, we had steel, we had food, lumber, aluminum...practically everything we needed. There's one thing we didn't have...rubber. The enemy had that."

"But that didn't bother us for long. Soon American brains and industry had synthetic rubber by the tons rolling out of plants. That filled a critical need...you can't win a war without rubber."

"I was very much interested the other day in reading a statement made by a high government official on synthetic rubber. In it he said 'It is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to date as being almost solely the product of the beverage distilling industry.'"

"He also said that, in his estimation, the tremendous contribution of distillers' industrial alcohol to the synthetic rubber program had not received the recognition which it deserves."

"We certainly learned something today, didn't we Mary?"
